Democrats Say It's Too Early To Tell If Tax Cut Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President-elect Jimmy Carter considers whether to propose a new tax cut in January, key congressional Democrats say it's too early to tell if one will be needed and warn they will approach any proposal cautiously.

Carter said last week that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

But Congress' chief taxwriter, House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, said Tuesday that Congress should approach any such proposal "with great caution."

"We would be deceiving the American people if they were led to believe they would be getting major tax deduction," Ullman said at a news conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

In more detailed remarks released through his Washington office, the Oregon Democrat said it is too early to determine whether an additional tax cut on top of the $19 billion tax cut already approved by Congress would be appropriate.

"We should approach an additional tax cut with great caution and should evaluate carefully all of the alternatives," he said.

Ullman said anti-recession job programs and incentives for investments in high unemployment areas "would be more effective in dealing with the problem."

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., candidate for chairman of the House Budget Committee, said he believes neither Carter nor Congress would approve another tax cut unless the economy gets worse.

Carter said last Thursday that a tax cut "could be a strong possibility if there is no change in the rate of growth of the economy, and if economic indicators should show a negative aspect."

But while putting dampers on Carter's talk of a new tax cut, both Ullman and Giaimo said they and other Democratic leaders and the President-elect will work out agreements on such issues.

Ullman said he expects to stay in close touch with Carter's aides and "I'm confident we'll be in full agreement on the issue in January."

He said in Colorado Springs that he has found Carter's staff people in talks so far to be "responsible people with their feet on the ground...I think we can develop some measures that are responsible and workable."

Robbery Reported At Kwik-Pik Here

Murray City Police are looking for a lone armed robber who robbed the Kwik-Pik Market on Whitnell early today of an undetermined amount of money.

Police said the robbery occurred at about 12:23 a. m. today. A clerk, Joyce Tyler, Route One, Almo, was struck by the robber with a blunt object, thought possibly to be a rock, according to police.

The robber fled on foot with the money, which police said was well over $100. No exact amount has been determined yet.

Euple Ward, left, accepts the Certificate of Organization for The Salvation Army Service Unit of Murray, Ky., from Colonel Harold Stout, Service Unit Field Representative for Kentucky and Tennessee of the Salvation Army. Serving on the committee here are, in background, Carolyn Parks, treasurer, Groover Parker, and Myra Mueller. Not present for the acceptance of the charter were Bonnie Ashby, Bobs Hopper, and Rev. Ron Hampton, also members of the local committee.

City Council Schedules Two Sessions This Week

The Murray Common Council will meet in two separate sessions today and Thursday to discuss several items of city business.

The first session, a "pre-council" session, will be held at 5:30 p. m. this afternoon in the council chambers at City Hall.

The council's regular meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the television studios at Murray State University. Thursday's session will be televised over MSU-TV, cable channel 11.

Most of the items on the agenda for Thursday's regular meeting will be discussed at this afternoon's "pre-council" session, however the council does not take official action in the pre-council meetings.

Items listed on the agenda in addition to routine matters include:

—a report on an audit of police court records from Thomas Shirley, CPA;

—a recommendation on a contract for central billing services for the city from central billing committee chairman Dr. C. C. Lowry;

—a recommendation on employment of a city dog warden from councilman Ed Chrisman;

—the second reading of an ordinance implementing one-way traffic on Cherry Street, and;

—consideration of a personnel ordinance for the city.

Murray Common Council meetings are open to the public and interested citizens are invited to attend.

School Board To Meet On Thursday

Several items of business will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Murray Independent School Board Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Board Office Building, 9th and Poplar.

The board will hear a report from the architects concerning plans for rewiring and heating at Murray Middle School.

Among other items on the agenda are:

—a request for permission for the Murray High band to compete in the National Marching Contest at Whitewater, Wis.;

—a discussion on the National School Board Association Convention which will be held in March of 1977; and;

—a report from Supt. Fred Schultz concerning a Junior ROTC program in the school system.

Salvation Army Unit Established For Murray Area

A Service Unit of The Salvation Army was officially installed in Murray in a special meeting of the local committee held at noon Tuesday at the Triangle Inn.

Euple Ward accepted the certificate of organization from Colonel Harold Stout, retired, new Service Unit Field Representative for the Salvation Army for Kentucky and Tennessee.

The charter read as follows: "This is to certify that The Salvation Army Service Unit of Murray, Ky., is duly organized pursuant to the Salvation Army Manual for advisory organizations and is this date in good standing as an authorized Advisory Organization of The Salvation Army devoted to the purpose of assisting The Salvation Army in accomplishing its spiritual and humanitarian objectives." The charter was signed by Ernest Holz, Territorial Commander of the Southern Headquarters at Atlanta, Ga.

With the Salvation Army unit in Murray and Calloway County, another special resource for emergency funds will be available to needs in the area.

Mrs. Ward, who is also the director of Needleline in Murray, has seen the need for special emergency funds to help persons who are unable to receive help from any other sources, and accepted the chairmanship of the local Salvation Army Unit to help in the work of the Needleline.

The Salvation Army is an international religious and charitable organization, based on Love For God and Love For Man. The unit preaches the Gospel to win people to Christ, and helps people without discrimination as to race or creed, according to Col. Stout. It was first started by William Booth in 1865 when he started Christian Mission Centers in London, and in 1878 he adopted the name, "The Salvation Army."

By 1900 the Salvation Army had spread and had thousands of officers and soldiers in 36 countries. The work has continued and now General Erik Wickberg is head of the Army which serves in 74 countries, preaches in 103 languages and maintains 19,467 religious-charitable centers and 28 schools for officers' training.

With the Salvation Army service unit in Murray, ten local underprivileged children will be able to be sent to one of the Army's camps near Nashville, Tenn., next summer; unmarried mothers will have a place to go to one of the Army's general or maternity hospitals and be able to continue their studies and receive counseling while away from home; in the event of a disaster or fire such as the recent one at the Houston-McDevitt Clinic, a mobile canteen serving food, coffee, clothing, blankets, medical supplies, and spiritual ministry would have been brought into the area of the disaster.

Mrs. Ward said with the funds available in the Salvation Army Service

This special plaque was presented by Colonel Harold Stout of the Salvation Army to Euple Ward, chairman of The Salvation Army Service Unit in Murray, on Tuesday. Mrs. Ward, also director of Needleline, said with the Army Service Unit here, this will be another source for funds for immediate emergency needs and will also help in other services for the people of Murray and Calloway County.

Unit account at the local bank, she will be able to help a person with an immediate emergency need such as medicine, food, clothing, etc., without having to go through other sources.

Working with Mrs. Ward on the Salvation Army Service Unit committee will be Carolyn Parks, treasurer, Bonnie Ashby of the Department of Human Resources, Rev. Ron Hampton, Myra Mueller, Groover Parker, and Bobs Hopper.

Mrs. Ward and the committee will hold special meetings to discuss the work of the local service unit at noon on the third Tuesday of every other month. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, January 18, at noon at the Triangle Inn.

At the meeting Tuesday, Colonel Stout discussed the many services of the Salvation Army which include dispensaries and clinics, children's homes and foster care services, settlements and day nurseries, emergency lodges and skid row centers, homes for senior citizens, social service centers, services in correctional institutions, missing persons bureau, employment services, boys' clubs, summer camps, servicemen's clubs, men's social service centers, evangeline residences for business women, and many others.

Persons desiring to contribute to the local service unit of the Salvation Army may send their donations to Salvation Army Service Unit, c/o Carolyn Parks, treasurer, Bank of Murray, Murray, Ky.

Provides On-The-Job Experience

Hospital, Nursing Home And MSU Sign Food Service Pact

Representatives of Westview Nursing Home and the Murray-Calloway County Hospital have signed contractual agreements with Murray State University to provide on-the-job work experience for dietetic technician students in food services.

Harold Beaman, nursing home administrator, and Stuart Poston, hospital administrator, signed the papers during a meeting on the campus Monday. Dr. Constantine W. Curris, Murray State president, signed in behalf of the university.

Students in the associate of science degree program, a two-year course of study initiated this fall in the Department of Home Economics, will also get field experience in the university's food services operation head by Joe Dyer as director.

Mrs. Betty E. Beaman, director of food services at Westview, will be the facility coordinator at the nursing home, while Mrs. Anne E. Flood, head dietitian and director of food services, will be the facility coordinator at the hospital.

Developed according to guidelines established by the American Dietetics Association, the Dietetic Technician Program at Murray State is designed to prepare students for food service management positions in a variety of health care, educational, and commercial food service facilities.

Mrs. Frieda F. Brown, program director, is a registered dietitian and an instructor of foods, nutrition, and dietetics in the Department of Home Economics. A native of Tennessee and graduate of The University of Tennessee, Mrs. Brown taught four years at the college level in Georgia before joining the faculty at Murray State in 1975.

She said the strengths of the program lie primarily in two areas.

"First, students receive on-the-job work experience as a component of the academic program," she explained, "and, secondly, the program is career-laddered to enable students to utilize all academic credits in the two-year program toward the completion of a four-year baccalaureate degree in foods, nutrition, and dietetics at Murray State."

Dietetic technician students are Rebecca Blackford and Marion Outland, both of Murray, Michelle Bowen, Louisville, Pat Dorris, Evansville, Ind., and Lillie Woodard, Southside, Tenn.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG FARMER—Danny Cunningham, center was honored Tuesday evening by the Murray-Calloway County Jaycees as Calloway County's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1976. Cunningham has been selected as one of the top three finalists in statewide competition and the winner will be announced Nov. 20 in Bowling Green. Cunningham lives in the Penny community with his wife Julia Ann and their three daughters Deana, Dana and Denise. "The OYF program in Kentucky is in coordination with a nationwide JC program in an effort to recognize and credit the young farmers of our country," a Jaycee spokesman said. At left is local JC vice-president Donnie Lovett and at right is OYF program chairman Terry Broach.

AWAY-FROM-HOME MEALS INCREASE

Of the $159 billion which Americans spent on food in 1975, thirty per cent or $46.9 billion was spent for food consumed away from home, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture economists.

Since 1970 this away-from-home food market has annually accounted for 27-30 per cent of total food consumption. Included in this consumer group are institutions such as nursing homes, hospitals and colleges as well as restaurants and fast-food chains.

Margaret Trevathan, third from left, librarian at the Calloway County Public Library, conducted a tour of the library for the members of the Theta Department of the Murray Woman's Club on October 18. She also briefly reviewed the book, "Are You There God? It's Me Margaret" by Judy Blume. She was introduced by Maxine Scott. The members later went to the club house for the business session, conducted by Oneida Boyd. Reports were given by Anna Mae Thurman, Rachel Hendon, Dortha Bailey, Muncie Geurin, Louise Miller, Wilma Beatty, and Dortha Jones. Hostesses were Dortha Bailey, Muncie Geurin, Martha Enix, and Evelyn Bradley. Roberta Ward was welcomed as a new member. Pictured, left to right, at the library, are Anna Mae Thurman, Maxine Scott, Margaret Trevathan, Muncie Geurin, Oneida Boyd, and Cloia Campbell. Also present were Helen Beal, Geneva Brownfield, Jo Burkeen, Billie Hall, Jan Hough, and Alexa Starks. The department will meet Monday, November 15, at 7:30 p. m. at the club house with Jean Cloar, county extension agent in home economics as speaker. Hostesses will be Anna Mae Thurman, Oneida Boyd, Helen Beal, and Pauline Parker.

Guide To Hints For The Cold Weather

GLAMOUR Magazine's beauty editors say: Cold weather can stir you to a faster pace, a bloomier skin and fresh pleasure at being out, but if you don't take a few precautions, being outside can turn that bloom to a chapped red. Here are a few easy ideas to keep you one up on winter.

EYES
Wear sunglasses all year. They will help protect against the cold and wind that make your eyes water. A good waterproof mascara guards against smudges. The eye area is the driest part of your face, so treat it with a rich moisturizer worn under makeup and while you sleep.

CHEEKS
Cheeks are prime targets for chapping and windburn. Give them the protection of a good moisturizer or a moisturizing foundation during the day. Vaseline petroleum jelly applied to chapped areas at bedtime is very soothing. Use a cream, rather than a powder blush, if cheeks are chapped.

LIPS
Wear a protective lip pomade over, under or in place of lipstick. Carry one in your purse for quick touch-ups. Never go outdoors in cold weather without something on your lips. The moisture from licking them will cause chapping. If your lips do get chapped, wear a clear or colored gloss, not a lipstick which will only emphasize cracks.

EARS
If a hat or conventional earmuffs won't work for you, try a good-looking ski band, the kind that goes around your head and covers your ears. It's deliciously warm.

HAIR
Don't forget that cold wind and weather make hair dry and brittle. Treat yours gently and deep-condition it once a month. Try using your dryer on the "warm" instead of "hot" setting to cut down on the effects of too much heat. Limit the use of electric rollers and curling irons to three times a week.

"We cannot be just if we are not kindhearted."
Vauvenargues

Spring Creek Girls, Action Meet

The Spring Creek Baptist Church Girls In Action held their regular meeting at the home of the leader, Mrs. Jerry Butler, with eight girls present, on Friday, October 15, after school hours.

Myllinda Mitchell, president, presided, and Renee Butler, secretary-treasurer, called the roll. Three guests present were Cindy Hughes, Paula Warren, and Carla Waggoner, with the latter becoming a new member.

The call to prayer was led by Renee Butler. The lesson was given by Mrs. Butler, leader, including an excerpt from the book, "Tomorrow's Land" by Wendell Belew, giving his view of the story of Christ's birth as told by Kentucky mountain men.

For refreshments each child made her own carmel apple. Games were led by recreational leaders, Anita Waggoner and Christy Darnell. Amy Pyle was a member also present.

Miscellaneous Shower Given For Miss Marybeth Cavanaugh Sunday

Miss Marybeth Cavanaugh, December 10th bride-elect of Wm. Stan Downs, was honored with a miscellaneous shower on Sunday, November 7, at three p. m. at the Peoples Bank Community Room at 12th and Chestnut.

The honoree selected from her trousseau a green and yellow plaid skirt, yellow blouse and green vest with matching accessories. She was presented with a corsage of yellow gladioli by the hostesses who were: Miss Melonie Hutchens, Mrs. Coleen Linn, Mrs. Janice Cavanaugh, and Miss Rita Brandon.

Mrs. John T. Cavanaugh, mother of the bride-elect was presented with a corsage of white gladioli.

The bride-elect opened her many lovely gifts and displayed them on a table covered with a white tablecloth, with an umbrella with pink roses and burgundy net attached, and pink ribbon streamers with love knots.

Miss Melonie Hutchens, friend of the bride-elect, kept the guest register. Favors of mints in burgundy nets were presented to each guest.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth, with a centerpiece of pink roses, burgundy net and pink and burgundy candles. The two tier cake was decorated with pink roses, with a fresh red rose decorating the bottom tier.

Nuts, mints, lime punch, and cake were served in sterling silver appointments by Miss Hutchens and Mrs. Coleen Linn.

Games were played with the winners being, Mrs. Eleanor D'Angelo, Mrs. Pat Houston, Miss Cathy Downs. All prizes were presented to the honoree. Sixty-two persons were present or sent gifts.

Mrs. Rogers Hostess For Club Meeting

Mrs. Lenith Rogers was hostess for the October meeting of the Suburban Homemakers Club held at her home with the president, Mrs. Holmes Dunn, presiding.

The lesson on "Fall Fashions" was presented by Mrs. Rogers who said some of the trends were bulk over slimmness, tunics, vests, pants tucked into boot tops, and large soft bags. She showed clothing items to illustrate points in her discussion.

Mrs. Preatice Dunn gave the minor lesson on "Foliage Plants." Mrs. Roy Hancock brought a "Macrame Santa Door Decoration" she was making. Mrs. Leon Adams discussed the landscape notes.

The devotion on "Stewardship of the Earth" was given by Mrs. Robert Hendon. Mrs. Jean* Cloar, county home agent in home economics, was a visitor.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rogers and her cohostess, Mrs. Harry Russell. Also present were Mrs. Learon McGary, Mrs. Clyde Miller, and Mrs. Jack Wilson.

Many Things May Be Reason For Carter Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The black vote, the solid South, the strength of organized labor...all these and many more have been mentioned as reasons why Jimmy Carter snatched the big job from President Ford.

Albert Sindlinger, the researcher, has another reason: Ford tried to tell two-thirds of the American population that things were getting better because one-third of Americans had emerged from the recession.

This, he suggested, must have been received by millions of voters with incredulity and perhaps resentment: "If the President really feels I am doing well," they may have said, "there is little I can expect from him."

The majority of American people, said Sindlinger, do not believe they have recovered from the economy's stumble, and they do not care one whit about those statistics that show an economy gradually improving.

They know, said Sindlinger, in his view, nobody tells the ordinary person anything about what he knows best — that is, the state of his own pocketbook. No, not even the president of the United States.

Sindlinger has claimed throughout this year that most Americans have remained to one degree or another plagued by economic problems. One-third of Americans doing very well, he observes, can distort the general average.

Where does this information come from? From the people themselves. Sindlinger's company, based in Media, Pa., calls 1,100 families each week. Unlike the special election surveys and the straw votes which last for days or weeks or months, his polling goes on seven days a week by telephone, year after year.

The findings aren't based on impressions. Instead, specific questions are asked about jobs, income, business conditions, ability to buy, expectations about the future. Same questions, day after day.

On Oct. 7, Sindlinger & Co. reported that a new recession was under way. And long before that he had countered the bullishness of some of the highly publicized indicators by saying the best one of all, the assessment of the people, was falling.

In his opinion — which is based on the opinions he hears expressed over the telephone — a tax cut, as President Ford had promised and President-elect Carter has suggested, won't turn the tide. "People would just bank it," he says.

What, then, would help restore the ability of people to buy, and give them confidence to buy? Considering the involved suggestions commonly offerred, his reply was remarkably simple: "Lower prices."

Perhaps more offensive to many people was the President's insistence that the job situation was improving when, as the government's statistics showed, unemployment was rising, to 7.9 per cent from 7.3 earlier this year.

Inflation also is very much with us. The Wholesale Price Index rose at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent in October. Like the job figure, this too was released immediately after the election.

In Sindlinger's view, the President tried to tell the people something about which they had better information. Instead, he said, they told him.

Four Keys to A Healthy Heart

Heart Enemies: Diabetes, Obesity, Stress

EIGHTH IN A SERIES

By Alton Blakeslee and Jeremiah Stamler, M.D.

Diabetes is becoming an ever greater enemy of human hearts, brains, eyes and limbs.

Representing an inability to handle sugar properly, diabetes has become the third-ranking killer disease in the United States, the National Commission on Diabetes reported in January 1976.

The disease brings higher risk of heart disease and stroke, blindness, kidney diseases and gangrene of the legs. And, says the Commission, the number of Americans with diabetes, mostly starting in adult years, is increasing ominously.

In Western cultures, says a British report on prevention of CHD (coronary heart disease), diabetic men have two to three times more CHD, and diabetic women five or six times more than corresponding non-diabetics. "Among Western diabetics, CHD is the single commonest cause of death, accounting for about 50 per cent of them."

Much of this higher risk for coronary trouble is probably due to the association of diabetes with other known heart risk factors. The British report continues. These include obesity, elevated blood fats, elevated blood pressure and smoking.

Glucose or sugar tolerance tests can tell if you have any problem in handling blood sugars, any tendency toward diabetes.

The essence in preventing difficulty for the diabetic lies in control of diabetes or a tendency toward it through a broad approach.

This means trying to keep blood sugar levels normal throughout the day, with little or no glucose or sugar appearing in the urine, as one easy measure. But also it must include diet that will bring about and maintain loss of excess pounds, and that will lower high blood cholesterol.

Diet alone may not be enough to control the blood sugar problem, and then, insulin can invariably help. And exercise helps burn up excess sugar.

OBESITY

Life insurance statistical studies long ago pointed to obesity as enhancing one's risk of dying earlier and of suffering a premature heart attack or ment control of desired weight. Bank fewer calories. Spend more.

The fat, chubby child is by no means the healthy child, and may in fact be unhealthy. Obesity often starts in childhood. Fat children may easily become predisposed or even doomed to remain fat unless they undertake heroic measures not required of other people.

STRESS

Tensions and stresses in the various ways we live have long been suspect of having possibly bad effects on our hearts.

Scars and frights can acutely boost blood pressure. Worries can keep us tense, perhaps narrowing tiny blood vessels. All these are real and measurable physical effects from tensions and anxieties.

But it is much more difficult to measure their effects in the longer run on arteries and hearts. What is "stress" for one person may not be for another.

Nonetheless, how we live, how we perceive challenges and react to them, probably can affect to some degree what happens to our blood pressure, arteries and hearts.

An emotional crisis, even the excitement of a baseball or football game, may become the last insult, the last straw, for someone whose heart and arteries already are diseased.

However, it is difficult to demonstrate that chronic or long-term stress contributes to coronary heart disease.

In their large Western Collaborative Group Study, Drs. Meyer Friedman and Ray Rosenman at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco, Calif., studied men of what they call Type A Personality—time-stressed, competitive, aggressive, ambitious, work-oriented, emotionally complex. Type B men are not so pressing or hurried individuals, and are less than half as likely as Type A men to have a coronary attack, these researchers say.

One common impression is that it is the "big shot," the high executive, who runs the highest risk of heart attack, because he works so hard—and may even comment that he thinks his work is killing him. While wives might be inclined to agree, there is no real research finding that stress-linked coronary disease is higher among that group or any other group.

stroke. Other studies added to that evidence.

But results from other studies have not always been consistent with that finding. By itself, moderate obesity does not seem to be a major factor in coronary heart disease.

But, obese people are not "home free" on the score of their excess pounds. For obesity is usually associated with other serious risk factors, such as high blood pressure, a tendency to diabetes, higher levels of blood fats and uric acid (associated with gout), and reduced physical activity.

Marked obesity—say 20 per cent or more over desirable or recommended weight—appears to be a danger on its very own, even if other risk factors are lacking. It has further drawbacks, in physical appearance and limitations on physical abilities, emotional problems, plus the general threat of dying earlier.

Losing excess pounds well may help in reducing blood pressure, combating a diabetic tendency, and reducing blood fats.

The extra pounds come from consuming too many calories, putting them into a caloric "bank," and from not drawing out enough calories through physical activity.

Wiser use of knife, fork, spoon and glass is the main avenue toward getting rid of extra pounds, and keeping them off. Your new pound-controlling diet can be quite enjoyable. "Crash" diets with unusual and often tiresome features may shed some weight initially. The trouble is sticking with them.

One pound of fat represents about 3,500 "banked" calories. You don't have to try to burn up 3,500 in a day or week or even a month. You stored them up, putting on extra pounds over the years, by eating a bit more than your body needed, or that you accounted for through physical activity.

It's easy to become caloric-rich, and just as easy to do the reverse—eat a bit less every day than you've been doing and make exercise withdrawals from the bank.

An additional 10 minutes of walking each day means 50 to 60 calories spent—350 in a week, a pound in 10 weeks, five pounds in a year. You put the weight on through small daily gains. Take it off the same way, for perma-

TODAY'S TOPIC: POST-ELECTION THOUGHTS

For months to come, political analysts will conduct post-mortems on the elections. The term "post-mortem" is appropriate, for in any election the hopes of a part of the electorate are extinguished. What is an occasion of rejoicing for one group of Americans is a time of bitter disappointment for another.

Happily, however, the verdict of one election is not final, whether it is a local or national contest. Candidates and parties fail, but our basic institutions endure. Future elections offer fresh opportunities for improving the personnel and policies of government.

To date, the American people have been able to bind up their political wounds after a national election. While continuing to disagree on many issues, they manage to find a measure of unity. They make the best of things and look to another day — another election — for significant change. And the losers in American politics aren't totally eclipsed. They retain a variety of power bases in Congress and the states. They have opportunities while out of power to influence their fellow citizens.

The struggle for the mind of the nation is a never-ending process. Our population is made up of many groups with a variety of concerns and viewpoints. These interests and points of view shift from time to time. A continuing process of public discussion is both wise and necessary.

The important thing is to retain faith in the American people and in America's institutions. Politicians come and go. One can invest altogether too much hope in an individual or a party.

This isn't to say that the American people, as a whole, don't make mistakes. They do. On occasion, the country has taken the wrong turn. It is likely to do so again. It is important, however, to count our blessings as Americans. We have a nation that is rich not only in material goods but in liberties.

The permanent task for concerned citizens is to cultivate the spirit of liberty. No matter what happens in an election, one has opportunities to stress the value of a free society over a controlled society, a free economy over a regimented economy. Battles that can't be won in Congress may be won in schools and colleges. If the present generation lacks a full appreciation of the danger of Big Government, the rising generation may develop a clearer understanding.

To a very considerable degree, the government of the United States is engaged in a colloquy with its citizens. Major changes in policies require public approval. Therefore, opportunities exist for the citizen to participate in the policy-making process.

Letters to the President, members of Congress and to newspaper Letters To The Editor columns provide valuable means whereby private citizens can express their views. In this country, the views of the public have weight. More Americans need to realize this truth and to act upon it by expressing themselves on the issues that affect their lives and the lives of their children.

Political action at the ballot box is not the only tool of effective citizenship available to our people. Election Day is not the only occasion to exercise the rights and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Let's Stay Well

Cancer Of The Pancreas

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Cancer of the pancreas is a subtle, deadly disease that has been slowly increasing in the United States.

During the last 50 years, the number of persons dying from this form of cancer has grown from less than three to more than eight per 100,000 people per year.

Pancreatic cancer is now the fourth most fatal type of malignancy in this country, led only by lung, colon-rectal and breast cancer. Approximately 20,000 new cases of cancer of the pancreas appear each year.

The pancreas is a large gland, better than an inch wide and about six inches long, in the back part of the upper abdomen in front of the spine. The pancreas excretes digestive juices into the upper small intestine near the site where the bile enters from the liver. The pancreas also generates insulin to prevent sugar diabetes.

The symptoms of cancer of the pancreas may be vague and confusing, often making the diagnosis difficult. Symptoms may include indigestion, pressure and discomfort in the upper abdomen and pain in the back across the lower chest region. Later, if the tumor presses against the bile ducts, jaundice may appear and grow progressively worse.

Tobacco smokers, regular consumers of alcohol and women with sugar diabetes have an incidence of pancreatic cancer about two to three times higher than other nonusers and nondiabetics. These cancers appear more commonly in persons who are past age 40, especially in those in the seventh or eighth decade of life.

The pancreas has a rich blood supply, and the cancerous cells spread early to other parts of the body, such as into the regional lymph nodes and liver.

A variety of tests are used to aid in early diagnosis and include blood studies, examination of intestinal excretions, X-rays, sound wave tests and, in certain cases, direct viewing through a flexible scope inserted through the stomach into the intestine and pancreatic duct. Often the diagnosis is not possible until the abdomen is opened surgically.

Treatment has not produced satisfactory results because the cure rate and symptomatic relief are rare. Surgery, radiation and chemotherapy are used, generally in combination.

Physicians, patients, and their relatives are often disappointed at the difficulty in diagnosis and poor outcome. Even when these tumors are discovered early, the outlook is often dismal.

The best hope for improvement in management is for refinement in diagnostic tests and in yet undiscovered methods for control of cancer. — Q Mrs. M.D. asks that we indicate whether cold or heat should be used after a sprain.

A Application of cold, elevation and later a compression (elastic) bandage is the treatment of choice to lessen pain, reduce swelling, and promote healing. If signs and symptoms are moderate to severe, it is preferable to see a physician to rule out a fracture, which which a bad sprain can be confused.

Q Mrs. T.C. wants to know if it is true that women have more surgical operations than do men in the United States.

A Sometime ago (1973), the National Center for Health Statistics reported that women had a 54 per cent higher surgery rate than did men, and that gynecological surgery accounted for a major portion of the difference.

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Drivers of school buses for Head Start programs in four counties have demonstrated their driving skills at Eastern Kentucky University's Traffic Safety Institute. Seven drivers and two transportation aides from Madison, Powell, Clark and Estill counties took part in the program to insure they could handle the vehicles.

Dr. Frank Kodman, Jr., president of the Western Kentucky Psychological Association, will preside at the annual meeting to be held Friday, November 12, at 4:30 p. m. in Room 208, Faculty Hall, Murray State University. "Learning Disabilities" will be the topic for discussion. An election of officers will be held followed by the presentation of the annual award to the outstanding psychologist in Western Kentucky. Dr. Frank Julian, vice-president for Student Development, Murray State, will open the Conference with welcoming remarks. All interested persons are invited to attend, Dr. Kodman said.

Agonizing Ordeal At Scotia Mine Almost Over For Relatives Of Dead

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An agonizing ordeal that began last March for relatives of 11 men killed in a southeastern Kentucky coal mine explosion is almost over, but each day brings new uncertainties.

About 40 relatives who crowded into a small room at the federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration office in Whitesburg Tuesday were told the bodies of the 11 would be recovered by the end of next week.

But the news was accepted with skepticism by many in the room, mainly because they expected the bodies to be recovered much sooner.

The Scotia Coal Co. mine at Owen Fork, near Whitesburg, was sealed after the March 11 blast, and rescue operations began in mid-July. At that time, relatives were told it would take 60 to 90 days to recover the bodies.

Those target dates passed, then last week word spread that the bodies would be recovered next Monday. At the meeting Tuesday, the relatives were told it probably would be the end of next week, not Monday, when the bodies are brought out.

"There was disappointment for sure," said Harvey Sturgill, 27, whose father was one of the men killed in the March 11 blast. "I could see it in their faces. I don't think anybody believes them."

The 11 perished two days after an explosion in the same area of the mine killed 15 men. The bodies of the first victims were recovered but officials said it was too dangerous to try to bring out the men killed on March 11.

"We were told by Japser Cornett that the only reason they didn't want to give us an exact date was they didn't want to disappoint people," Sturgill said. "But we were disappointed anyway. They said they would give us two or three days notice."

Cornett is an official of Blue Diamond Coal Co. in Knoxville, which owns the Scotia mine.

Sturgill, describing the closed meeting in a telephone interview, said the relatives were told that "a temporary morgue will be set up" in an area where the bodies will be identified.

"There was no emotion at the meeting, really," Sturgill said. "You can only have so much. We've been through this for a long, long time."

Meanwhile, Kentucky Mining Commissioner H. N. Kirkpatrick said rescue teams have bypassed the area where both blasts occurred and have viewed some of the bodies. But they didn't recover them because they must first make the area safe by building seals and pumping oxygen into the area.

Kirkpatrick said the bodies of six men were found together, "one of the men was in a car and one is right by the locomotive."

"They were just getting ready to come out" when they were killed, he said. Before the rescue teams bypassed the bodies, they satisfied themselves that batteries on the two locomotives in the area were dead and could not emit sparks that could cause an explosion if enough oxygen were present, Kirkpatrick said.

"We couldn't argue with that point," he said. "They've risked their lives and they're volunteers."

Kirkpatrick explained that the atmosphere where the bodies are located contains 48 per cent methane gas "which is too rich to explode." Less methane and more oxygen, however, would be volatile, he said.

The team said they would not ventilate that section and risk their lives until they personally checked those two locomotives to make sure that neither of them could set off a spark," Kirkpatrick said.

Although no official ruling has been issued, the most common theory is that another locomotive caused the two explosions when batteries on its breaking system emitted sparks.

That locomotive, Kirkpatrick said, is farther down the mine shaft and will be sealed off before the bodies are removed.

Kirkpatrick said relatives of the dead miners will be allowed to have a representative with the rescue teams when the bodies are brought out, but that it must be a qualified miner. He said Scotia insisted on that.

"They're paying a tremendous amount for insurance and they're not going to agree to anyone except a qualified person going down there," he said.

"They're going to have a place for everybody except my crew and MESA's crew," he said. "We'll have badges and we can go wherever we want to go."

Although no official ruling has been issued, the most common theory is that another locomotive caused the two explosions when batteries on its breaking system emitted sparks.

That locomotive, Kirkpatrick said, is farther down the mine shaft and will be sealed off before the bodies are removed.

Kirkpatrick said relatives of the dead miners will be allowed to have a representative with the rescue teams when the bodies are brought out, but that it must be a qualified miner. He said Scotia insisted on that.

"They're paying a tremendous amount for insurance and they're not going to agree to anyone except a qualified person going down there," he said.

"They're going to have a place for everybody except my crew and MESA's crew," he said. "We'll have badges and we can go wherever we want to go."

Kirkpatrick said the bodies of six men were found together, "one of the men was in a car and one is right by the locomotive."

"They were just getting ready to come out" when they were killed, he said. Before the rescue teams bypassed the bodies, they satisfied themselves that batteries on the two locomotives in the area were dead and could not emit sparks that could cause an explosion if enough oxygen were present, Kirkpatrick said.

"We couldn't argue with that point," he said. "They've risked their lives and they're volunteers."

Kirkpatrick explained that the atmosphere where the bodies are located contains 48 per cent methane gas "which is too rich to explode." Less methane and more oxygen, however, would be volatile, he said.

The team said they would not ventilate that section and risk their lives until they personally checked those two locomotives to make sure that neither of them could set off a spark," Kirkpatrick said.

Coke May Lose Stockholder If Company Buys Wine Firm

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "Coke Adds Life," goes the soft-drink ad. Now Coke wants to add a wine company, and it may lose the United Methodist Church as a shareholder if it does.

The church, which opposes use of alcohol, said Tuesday that it may sell its nearly $1 million worth of Coca-Cola Co. stock if the multi-billion-dollar firm, based in Atlanta, goes through with plans to acquire Taylor Wine Co. of New York.

A Coca-Cola spokesman in Atlanta said only one person on the corporate staff was authorized to discuss the matter, and he was not available.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know the exact amount of Coca-Cola stock held by the church because the council's treasurer is on vacation. But he said 12,800 shares is "probably the ball park figure."

The stock closed on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday at $77.50 a share, making the church holdings worth more than $990,000.

The Rev. C.J. Lupo Jr. of

Greenwood, S.C., chairman of the United Methodist General Council on Ministries' investment committee, said Tuesday that the proposed acquisition of the wine company came up at a recent Methodist world division meeting at Denver.

He said the church drafted a letter urging the company not to go through with the merger and warning that if the deal were consummated, the church would sell its stock. He said the stock is part of the denomination's $50 million investment program.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know whether the company had responded to the letter.

"It's been the stand of the Methodist Church as long as I can remember, for total abstinence," said Leslie E. Barnhardt of Charlotte, a member of the council.

"Not all Methodists abide by this, but it has been a policy..." she said. "I'm sure there will be complaining... (but) there will be a lot who support the sale."

Washington Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service will soon be making public all the thousands of tax rulings it issues each year, although the IRS will not identify the corporations or individuals involved. In the past, the IRS revealed most rulings only to its agents or to corporations and taxpayers who sought guidance on a specific tax issue. The House Ways and Means Committee, which wrote the disclosure requirement into the new tax law, expressed concern that "the secrecy surrounding letter rulings has generated suspicion that the tax laws may be used by the 'influential' to their advantage."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting economic difficulties throughout the world may prompt President-elect Jimmy Carter to support an international economic summit conference soon after he takes office, one of his advisers says. While Carter has not committed himself to such an economic summit, it would be "a logical kind of sequence for him to pursue," C. Fred Bergsten, a Brookings Institution economist who advises the President-elect on international economic issues, said Tuesday. There is growing concern that the major economies in the industrial world have slowed too much, and that problems of unemployment and low output are getting worse instead of better.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Vietnam are opening talks Friday in Paris on the prospects for friendly relations, but U.S. officials say substantive progress is doubtful before the Carter administration takes office. "We're going to be hard-nosed but not belligerent," one official said Tuesday. "It's not going to be a friendly meeting." The talks will be the first between the two countries since the Vietnam peace agreement was signed in 1973.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's first policy disagreement with key congressional Democrats is emerging over the possibility of a new tax cut. Carter said last week that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it. But Congress' chief taxwriter, House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, said Tuesday that Congress should approach any such proposal with caution. "We would be deceiving the American people if they were led to believe they would be getting a major tax deduction," Ullman said at a news conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Committee Okays Twelve Projects

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — An advisory committee has approved spending of $101,970 in coal severance tax money for 12 projects in four counties.

The legislative advisory committee on the Coal-Producing Counties Development Fund reviews projects which counties propose undertake with severance tax money returned to them by the state.

The committee approved projects Tuesday in Ohio, Webster, Knott and Perry counties.

Ohio county will spend $15,970 on six road projects and $17,500 for a new dump truck. Webster County proposes to spend $10,500 for two road projects, and Knott County plans two road projects that will total $23,000. Perry County wants to spend $35,000 on playground equipment for 12 elementary schools.

Smokey Bear Dies Thursday, Age 26

CAPITAN, N.M. (AP) — Smokey Bear, who received so much fan mail he was given his own zip code, has returned to the New Mexico mountain from which he was rescued 26 years ago during a raging forest fire.

Smokey, who became America's symbol of fire prevention after New Mexico game warden Elliott Barker found him clinging with burned paws to a charred tree, died of natural causes Tuesday at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C.

He was 26 years old, the equivalent of 70 in humans. Smokey's remains were flown from Washington to Albuquerque on Tuesday night, then taken to Smokey Bear Historical State Park.

The park, still under construction, faces Capitan Mountain, the scene of the disastrous Capitan Gap Fire in 1950 that nearly claimed Smokey's life.

Foreign Roundup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks moved into Beirut and surrounding areas today in the new Arab League peacekeeping force's first major move toward ending the 19-month-old Lebanese civil war. A column of 50 tanks, 12 armored personnel carriers and 12 truckloads of heavily armed troops rumbled into the Galerie Samaan, a battleground on the southeast edge of Beirut. Other units headed for seaford positions in the rear of the combatants. There was no resistance to the Syrian advance. But as the armored column moved in, Christians and Moslems exchanged machine-gun fire for five minutes, until Syrian officers negotiated a cease-fire. And random shelling broke out on the other side of the city, with leftist spokesmen reporting heavy casualties in Moslem West Beirut.

TOKYO (AP) — The 50th anniversary of Emperor Hirohito's reign was observed today with a simple official ceremony, small-scale hostile leftist rallies and a 30,000-man police alert against violence. Government employees and schools had a half holiday, but the national government left all public celebrations to local officials. Ten thousand police guarded the Martial Arts Hall in downtown Tokyo where the world's longest-reigning monarch, his wife, Empress Nagako, and other members of the imperial family appeared before more than 7,000 invited guests. In downtown Tokyo, several thousand leftists demonstrated against celebration of the anniversary. No violence was reported, but four demonstrators were arrested. Meanwhile, five or six ultrarightists threw firecrackers at the headquarters of the Socialist party.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Africa's black nations plan another drive to get Security Council sanctions against South Africa following the General Assembly's adoption Tuesday of 10 resolutions denouncing the white-minority regime and its apartheid racial policy. The demands for economic and military sanctions will probably be blocked by Western vetoes, as previous ones have been. But the council debate will put the spotlight once more on the United States, Britain, France and other Western nations that support and trade with South Africa's white-minority regime. In addition to the demand for a mandatory arms embargo that has been vetoed frequently, there will be a proposal by Sweden for a ban on new investments in South Africa.

Hearst Moved To San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was moved from a spacious federal prison in Northern California to a 12-story facility here at her own request for security reasons, officials say.

Miss Hearst, 22, who is serving a seven-year sentence for armed bank robbery, was driven to the Metropolitan Correctional Center here on Tuesday from the campus-like Federal Correctional Institution in Pleasanton, east of San Francisco.

Bill Garrison, warden at Pleasanton, said Miss Hearst had filed a written request for the transfer last week.

Concern for Miss Hearst's safety was believed to stem from reports that she has agreed to testify for the prosecution at two upcoming trials involving her former underground companions.

The San Diego Union, in a copyright story in today's editions, quoted an unnamed source in Northern California as stating that threats had been made to Miss Hearst while she was at Pleasanton.

The New York Times reported today that inmates at the Pleasanton prison said Miss Hearst had had "a number of tantrums," in which she went to her room and beat her fists against the wall until the knuckles were scraped and red.

Last week, the Times account said, Miss Hearst refused to report to her job of helping clean a dormitory unit. When told by authorities she would be put in isolation as punishment, she reportedly said that was what she wanted.

Many Forest And Field Fires Are Reported In Area

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — More than 30 forest and field fires were reported in Western Kentucky Tuesday, but little damage was expected.

Dave Sorenson of the state Forestry Division office here, said the low humidity and high winds, made the area susceptible to fires.

He also blamed carelessness of the part of some Western Kentuckians for the fires which ranged in size from two acres to 25 acres.

Coke May Lose Stockholder If Company Buys Wine Firm

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "Coke Adds Life," goes the soft-drink ad. Now Coke wants to add a wine company, and it may lose the United Methodist Church as a shareholder if it does.

The church, which opposes use of alcohol, said Tuesday that it may sell its nearly $1 million worth of Coca-Cola Co. stock if the multi-billion-dollar firm, based in Atlanta, goes through with plans to acquire Taylor Wine Co. of New York.

A Coca-Cola spokesman in Atlanta said only one person on the corporate staff was authorized to discuss the matter, and he was not available.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know the exact amount of Coca-Cola stock held by the church because the council's treasurer is on vacation. But he said 12,800 shares is "probably the ball park figure."

The stock closed on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday at $77.50 a share, making the church holdings worth more than $990,000.

The Rev. C.J. Lupo Jr. of

Greenwood, S.C., chairman of the United Methodist General Council on Ministries' investment committee, said Tuesday that the proposed acquisition of the wine company came up at a recent Methodist world division meeting at Denver.

He said the church drafted a letter urging the company not to go through with the merger and warning that if the deal were consummated, the church would sell its stock. He said the stock is part of the denomination's $50 million investment program.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know whether the company had responded to the letter.

"It's been the stand of the Methodist Church as long as I can remember, for total abstinence," said Leslie E. Barnhardt of Charlotte, a member of the council.

"Not all Methodists abide by this, but it has been a policy..." she said. "I'm sure there will be complaining... (but) there will be a lot who support the sale."

Washington Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service will soon be making public all the thousands of tax rulings it issues each year, although the IRS will not identify the corporations or individuals involved. In the past, the IRS revealed most rulings only to its agents or to corporations and taxpayers who sought guidance on a specific tax issue.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which wrote the disclosure requirement into the new tax law, expressed concern that "the secrecy surrounding letter rulings has generated suspicion that the tax laws may be used by the 'influential' to their advantage."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting economic difficulties throughout the world may prompt President-elect Jimmy Carter to support an international economic summit conference soon after he takes office, one of his advisers says. While Carter has not committed himself to such an economic summit, it would be "a logical kind of sequence for him to pursue," C. Fred Bergsten, a Brookings Institution economist who advises the President-elect on international economic issues, said Tuesday.

There is growing concern that the major economies in the industrial world have slowed too much, and that problems of unemployment and low output are getting worse instead of better.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Vietnam are opening talks Friday in Paris on the prospects for friendly relations, but U.S. officials say substantive progress is doubtful before the Carter administration takes office. "We're going to be hard-nosed but not belligerent," one official said Tuesday. "It's not going to be a friendly meeting." The talks will be the first between the two countries since the Vietnam peace agreement was signed in 1973.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's first policy disagreement with key congressional Democrats is emerging over the possibility of a new tax cut. Carter said last week that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

But Congress' chief taxwriter, House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, said Tuesday that Congress should approach any such proposal with caution. "We would be deceiving the American people if they were led to believe they would be getting a major tax deduction," Ullman said at a news conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Committee Okays Twelve Projects

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — An advisory committee has approved spending of $101,970 in coal severance tax money for 12 projects in four counties.

The legislative advisory committee on the Coal-Producing Counties Development Fund reviews projects which counties propose undertake with severance tax money returned to them by the state.

The committee approved projects Tuesday in Ohio, Webster, Knott and Perry counties.

Ohio county will spend $15,970 on six road projects and $17,500 for a new dump truck. Webster County proposes to spend $10,500 for two road projects, and Knott County plans two road projects that will total $23,000. Perry County wants to spend $35,000 on playground equipment for 12 elementary schools.

Smokey Bear Dies Thursday, Age 26

CAPITAN, N.M. (AP) — Smokey Bear, who received so much fan mail he was given his own zip code, has returned to the New Mexico mountain from which he was rescued 26 years ago during a raging forest fire.

Smokey, who became America's symbol of fire prevention after New Mexico game warden Elliott Barker found him clinging with burned paws to a charred tree, died of natural causes Tuesday at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C.

He was 26 years old, the equivalent of 70 in humans.

Smokey's remains were flown from Washington to Albuquerque on Tuesday night, then taken to Smokey Bear Historical State Park.

The park, still under construction, faces Capitan Mountain, the scene of the disastrous Capitan Gap Fire in 1950 that nearly claimed Smokey's life.

Foreign Roundup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks moved into Beirut and surrounding areas today in the new Arab League peacekeeping force's first major move toward ending the 19-month-old Lebanese civil war. A column of 50 tanks, 12 armored personnel carriers and 12 truckloads of heavily armed troops rumbled into the "Galerie Samaan, a battleground on the southeast edge of Beirut. Other units headed for seaford positions in the rear of the combatants. There was no resistance to the Syrian advance. But as the armored column moved in, Christians and Moslems exchanged machine-gun fire for five minutes, until Syrian officers negotiated a cease-fire. And random shelling broke out on the other side of the city, with leftist spokesmen reporting heavy casualties in Moslem West Beirut.

TOKYO (AP) — The 50th anniversary of Emperor Hirohito's reign was observed today with a simple official ceremony, small-scale hostile leftist rallies and a 30,000-man police alert against violence. Government employees and schools had a half holiday, but the national government left all public celebrations to local officials. Ten thousand police guarded the Martial Arts Hall in downtown Tokyo where the world's longest-reigning monarch, his wife, Empress Nagako, and other members of the imperial family appeared before more than 7,000 invited guests. In downtown Tokyo, several thousand leftists demonstrated against celebration of the anniversary. No violence was reported, but four demonstrators were arrested. Meanwhile, five or six ultrarightists threw firecrackers at the headquarters of the Socialist party.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Africa's black nations plan another drive to get Security Council sanctions against South Africa following the General Assembly's adoption Tuesday of 10 resolutions denouncing the white-minority regime and its apartheid racial policy. The demands for economic and military sanctions will probably be blocked by Western vetoes, as previous ones have been. But the council debate will put the spotlight once more on the United States, Britain, France and other Western nations that support and trade with South Africa's white-minority regime. In addition to the demand for a mandatory arms embargo that has been vetoed frequently, there will be a proposal by Sweden for a ban on new investments in South Africa.

Hearst Moved To San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was moved from a spacious federal prison in Northern California to a 12-story facility here at her own request for security reasons, officials say.

Miss Hearst, 22, who is serving a seven-year sentence for armed bank robbery, was driven to the Metropolitan Correctional Center here on Tuesday from the campus-like Federal Correctional Institution in Pleasanton, east of San Francisco.

Bill Garrison, warden at Pleasanton, said Miss Hearst had filed a written request for the transfer last week.

Concern for Miss Hearst's safety was believed to stem from reports that she has agreed to testify for the prosecution at two upcoming trials involving her former underground companions.

The San Diego Union, in a copyright story in today's editions, quoted an unnamed source in Northern California as stating that threats had been made to Miss Hearst while she was at Pleasanton.

The New York Times reported today that inmates at the Pleasanton prison said Miss Hearst had had "a number of tantrums," in which she went to her room and beat her fists against the wall until the knuckles were scraped and red.

Last week, the Times account said, Miss Hearst refused to report to her job of helping clean a dormitory unit. When told by authorities she would be put in isolation as punishment, she reportedly said that was what she wanted.

Many Forest And Field Fires Are Reported In Area

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — More than 30 forest and field fires were reported in Western Kentucky Tuesday, but little damage was expected.

Dave Sorenson of the state Forestry Division office here, said the low humidity and high winds, made the area susceptible to fires.

He also blamed carelessness of the part of some Western Kentuckians for the fires which ranged in size from two acres to 25 acres.

Calloway Cagers To Open Season Friday

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Someone is going to fall out of the boat Friday night.

There are two coaches in the boat, one is Robert Slone of Calloway County High School and the other is Ray Wilson of Carlisle County High School. The two teams will meet in the season opener for both clubs in Jeffrey Gymnasium at approximately 8 p. m. Friday.

Slone is in his first year at Calloway County after a successful three years at Butler County.

Wilson is in his first year at Carlisle County, after posting a 60-45 record over the last three years at South Fulton.

Slone has two starters back from last season's team that posted a 5-20 record.

Wilson has two starters back from last season's team that struggled through a 10-16 campaign.

Calloway County is basically a small club, so is Carlisle County.

Though it's only the first game of the year, it's extremely important to both coaches, who find themselves in the same boat.

"It's very important for an inexperienced team to get some experience," Slone said. "We would certainly like for that experience to include some early wins to get us off to a good start," the Laker coach added.

Both teams got a chance to see each other last Friday in the Carlisle County Jamboree. The Lakers edged St. Mary by a point while the Comets fell 42-32 to Lowes.

Carlisle County looked very impressive in their pregame warmups. They looked very fundamentally sound. And when the game started, they were very aggressive.

They applied fullcourt, man-to-man pressure and ran for the whole game," Slone said.

It's tradition for the Comets to run and Wilson said he expects his team will be running a lot this season.

"We are so small, we're going to have to make up for it with our speed. I plan to play eight or nine people and try to keep fresh players in the game," Coach Wilson said.

"We feel like we may have problems staying on the boards with the teams we play this year. So we try and put special emphasis on our pressure defense and we'll run when we get the opportunity," he added.

The Lakers' two starters are both seniors. Tommy Futrell, a 5-9 guard, has been starting since he was a freshman. Mike Wells, a 6-2½ forward, has started since his sophomore year.

Joining those two in the lineup will be 6-1 junior Jimmy Lamb at forward, 6-2 junior Marc Darnell at center and 5-10 junior Randy McCallon at guard.

Lamb and Futrell each had eight points in the Jamboree Friday while Wells had five, Darnell two and McCallon one.

"We went keyed up for the Jamboree," Slone said.

"We went up there, determined to win. Darnell got in a little foul trouble, he was just a little over-anxious. Lamb did a fine job. I was very pleased with his play."

"Futrell didn't have one of his better shooting nights but he led us in rebounding with seven. McCallon played a good floor game but just didn't have the opportunity to score and Wells did pretty well playing inside," Slone added.

"We aren't going to have a great deal of depth. We're going to have to control our foul problems or we could be in trouble."

Does Slone have any goals for his club?

"I don't set goals. I just plan to go out there and hope our kids can do the best they can. We might do our best and win six or seven games then again, we might win twice as many," he added.

The tallest player in the game will be the Comets' 6-4 senior center, Tony Wilson who scored eight points in the Jamboree. Wilson played last year but was plagued with injuries for much of the season.

The leading scorer for the Comets in the Jamboree was 5-10 senior forward Jimmy Gore who fired in 13 points, who is not expected to start Friday.

Coach Wilson said he expects Tony Wilson to start at center with the forward spots being held by 6-1 senior Tim Mathis and 5-11 junior Greg Nelson.

The guard spots appear to be solid with 5-10 senior guard Kenny Martin returning with 5-10 junior Mike Hoskins and 5-9 junior Kevin Hays fighting it out for the other starting guard berth.

After opening the campaign Friday, the Lakers will take a week's rest and play the following Friday at home against Cuba then go to Livingston Central on Saturday, the 20th.

High School Grid Poll

Mayfield Top 2-A Team, Tigers Finish Second

By MIKE CLARK
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bowling Green chased Ashland for a season and a half in the State AAAA high school football ratings, and the Purples' persistence has finally paid off.

Bowling Green, 12-0, was crowned the regular season champion in the final Associated Press regular season poll this week. The Western Kentucky powerhouse was joined by four other regular season champions — Trinity in Jefferson County, Erlanger Lloyd in State AAA, Mayfield in State AA and Harrodsburg in State A.

"We've got a very mature bunch of kids, and I don't think the number one ranking has ever affected us adversely," said Bowling Green Coach Wilson Sears. "Our kids have taken a lot of pride in being ranked number one and staying there."

The regular season honor aside, Bowling Green must prove its lofty ranking again this weekend when the Purples meet second-ranked and unbeaten Henderson County in the first round of the Class AAAA playoffs.

The same holds true for the other top-ranked clubs, each of whom realizes that a playoff loss could cost them the number one ranking in next month's final 1976 poll.

Trinity and Harrodsburg were the only unanimous choices in the regular season finale, Erlanger Lloyd was one vote short of perfection while Mayfield and Bowling Green came up just three votes short.

Likewise, Trinity and Harrodsburg were the only two teams to live up to their preseason billing.

Bowling Green, a preseason

No. 2 pick behind Paducah Tilghman, moved into the top spot in the fourth week of the season and held firm the rest of the way. Tilghman, meanwhile, finished 7-3 and was an also-ran in this week's voting.

Erlanger Lloyd was a No. 5 preseason selection, but took advantage of a loss by then-top ranked Franklin-Simpson to take solid possession of the lead in midseason. Ft. Thomas Highlands, the defending Class AAA champion and the preseason choice to repeat, finished 7-3 for the year and was unranked in the final poll.

Mayfield was the only champion passed over in preseason balloting, but the Cardinals made up for that in the first week of the season by bombing Heath 33-0. Mayfield surrendered the lead after a loss to Murray, but regained it for keeps later on when Murray and Corbin were upset victims.

Middlesboro was the preseason choice in State AA, but was beaten in the third game and finished 8-2.

Lexington Bates Creek, 7-3, was the only new member of the poll, taking over fifth in State AAAA while Paducah Tilghman dropped out. Bates Creek dumped Lexington Bryan Station 14-0 while Tilghman fell 30-21 to Mayfield.

Palmer Becomes Three-Time Recipient Of Cy Young Award

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Jim Palmer, an All-Star Game reject last July who reversed his field in the second half of the season, won the American League's Cy Young Award today for the third time.

The Orioles' right-hander joined Sandy Koufax, formerly of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets as baseball's only triple winners of the coveted pitching award.

Palmer, also named the American League's best pitcher in 1973 and 1975, was an easy winner this time over runner-up Mark Fidrych, Detroit's flashy "Birdman" who took baseball by storm in his rookie season.

Palmer received 108 points on 19 first-place votes, four seconds and one third from the Baseball Writers Association of America. His total more than doubled that of Detroit's young right-hander, who had 51 points based on five first-place votes, seven for second and five for third.

Points are awarded on a basis of five for first place, three for second and one for third.

California's Frank Tanana was a distant third with 18 points, while Ed Figueroa of the New York Yankees finished fourth with 12. Others who received votes were Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox, with 10; Vida Blue of the Oakland A's, 8; Minnesota's Bill Campbell, 7, and Rolie Fingers of Oakland and Wayne Garland, Palmer's teammate at Baltimore, 1 each.

Palmer had a losing record for most of the early season, but by the time of the All-Star Game, was pitching well and improved his record to 11-8.

However, he voiced his displeasure when Boston Manager Darrell Johnson did not select him for the AL All-Star team.

"I felt that if Catfish Hunter

(of New York) was picked with the same record, I should have been selected, too," Palmer told The Associated Press Tuesday night. "But, really I never felt I should have been on the team. The whole thing was blown out of proportion."

"My point was that the American League never seems to send its best players to the All-Star games...."

Palmer led the American League in victories with a 22-13 record and had an earned run average of 2.51 despite a desultory start. The reason he pitched well in the second half of the season was that the Orioles played better over-all ball, he said.

"Our club played very well after June 15," said Palmer. "We had a better record than the Yankees after that. The club has to play well for you to pitch well."

Palmer's latest triumph leaves him with few new fields to conquer.

"I'd just like to pitch about five or six years longer and stay healthy," he said.

Fidrych had a 19-9 record and the best ERA in the American League with 2.34.

TENNIS
HONG KONG — John Marks of Australia upset second-seeded American Roscoe Tanner 6-3, 6-4 in the opening round of the $75,000 Hong Kong International Tennis Classic.

STOCKHOLM — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors of the United States crushed Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-1 in opening-round action of the $150,000 Stockholm Open Grand Prix.

GENERAL
CAIRO, Egypt — Gottfried von Cramm, a former German tennis star in the 1930's, was killed in an auto accident. He was 66.

Cardinals Hope Warmth Will Help Against Rams

By PAUL STEVENS

Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are counting on a not-so-secret weapon to carry them to victory in Sunday's National Football League contest with the Los Angeles Rams. It's the warm California sun.

The team is scheduled to fly to Los Angeles tonight, three days earlier than normal, to conduct practices the rest of the week at the University of California-Riverside stadium, a short distance from the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"The weather is the big reason we're doing it," Coach Don Coryell said, noting that temperatures in the Los Angeles area were in the upper 80s in recent days — about 35 degrees warmer than in St. Louis.

"Getting out there a few days in advance, we'll get used to warm weather — and the smog."

The Cardinals, who are in second place in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division, apparently think the plan will be worth the expense of extra lodging and meals for their 43 players making the trip.

"When you're 7-2 at this point, you can't afford to lose more than a third game because of everybody else's schedule," said St. Louis director of operations Joe Sullivan. "We might be able to lose only one more game and get into the playoffs."

After facing the Rams, who lead the NFC West with a 6-2-1 mark, the Cardinals must play Washington, NFC East leading Dallas and Baltimore on successive Sundays.

Another advantage to practicing on the California-Riverside field is that it has natural turf, as does the Coliseum, while the Cardinals' own Busch Stadium has artificial carpeting.

Coryell still is upset over what he terms the Rams' refusal to allow the Cardinals to practice on the Coliseum surface last December before their NFC playoff battle, won by Los Angeles, 35-23.

"Other teams practiced on it before us," he said, "and the Dallas Cowboys did it the next week."

The St. Louis coach also recalled that because of the Christmas holiday, the team did not arrive in Los Angeles until the day before the contest.

"It takes three to four days for a person to become accustomed to weather conditions," Coryell said of his decision to arrive early this year. "We had a lot of players' cramping last year."

"After the Rams' loss to Cincinnati on Monday night, Coryell said, "We think they'll be very excited."

"If they'd come out and beat Cincinnati by a few touchdowns, we could maybe sneak up on them and be lucky," he said. "But we have to be ready, especially with our injury situation and playing them on their home ground."

Lakers Blow 20-Point Final Period Lead, Fall To Braves

By The Associated Press

How does a team lose a 20-point lead in the last quarter, Jerry West?

"We lost our poise," said the Los Angeles Lakers coach, "that's all."

While losing their poise, the Lakers also lost the concept of their game plan and eventually lost the game to the Buffalo Braves — a 121-116 National Basketball Association overtime thriller Tuesday night.

"No way we should have lost it," lamented West. "We won the ball game — it just won't show up in the results."

Theoretically, at least, the Lakers should have won. They held an 89-69 advantage going into the last period, but neglected to go to their strength — center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The Braves finally tied the game in regulation on Bob McAdoo's shot with two seconds left, then won it in overtime behind Randy Smith's eight points.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks stopped the Washington Bullets 106-97; the Houston Rockets turned back the Chicago Bulls 111-92; the San Antonio Spurs blasted the Seattle SuperSonics 138-114; the New Orleans Jazz whipped the New York Nets 110-99; the Cleveland Cavaliers outscored the Milwaukee Bucks 111-90; the Denver Nuggets defeated the Golden State Warriors 123-117, and the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Kansas City Kings 119-102.

Knicks 106, Bullets 97
Walt Frazier scored 23 points and Mo Layton led a second-half surge, carrying New York past Washington. The Knicks went ahead to stay by scoring the last eight points of the third quarter for a 74-68 advantage.

Rockets 111, Bulls 92
Mike Newlin's 25 points and a rugged defense led by Moses Malone and John Johnson powered Houston past Chicago. The Rockets were able to convert numerous Chicago turnovers and defensive lapses into easy baskets whenever the Bulls threatened to close in.

Spurs 138, SuperSonics 114
San Antonio rode the solid shooting of Larry Kenon and George Gervin over Seattle. Kenon collected 24 points and Gervin had 23 as the game never was in doubt after the first quarter.

Jazz 110, Nets 99
New Orleans got 52 points from Gail Goodrich and Pete Maravich to beat New York in a game that the Nets played under protest. Goodrich scored all of his 28 points in the second and fourth quarters.

Cavaliers 111, Bucks 90
Sparked by Campy Russell's 25 points and Austin Carr's 22, Cleveland took control in the second quarter and whipped Milwaukee for the Cavs' ninth victory in 10 starts.

Nuggets 123, Warriors 117
Dan Issel and David Thompson combined for 22 points in the fourth quarter and 59 points over-all as Denver defeated Golden State and remained the only undefeated team in the NBA.

Blazers 119, Kings 102
Portland, paced by Lionel Hollins and Bill Walton, rallied from an early eight-point second-quarter deficit to beat Kansas City. The Blazers were plagued by turnovers early in the game, but got their attack rolling midway in the second period and had control throughout the second half in winning their fifth straight game.

Maxey Flats Residents Shouldn't Fear Radiation, Official Says

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky. (AP) — A federal official has assured Kentuckians living near the Maxey Flats nuclear waste dumping ground that they have nothing to fear from excessive radiation levels.

Testifying at a public hearing here Tuesday, Dr. Daniel Montgomery, representing the Environmental Protection Agency, said that an EPA study conducted at the Fleming County site from October, 1974 to August, 1975, showed there were "elevated levels" of radiation in certain parts of the 252-acre burial ground.

But Montgomery assured the audience of about 60 persons that the "potential exposure level to residents is quite low."

In fact, Montgomery said, the amount of radiation reaching local residents is "lower than the dosage that everyone in the United States received from nuclear weapons testing during the 1960's."

Montgomery also said the exposure to radiation is "just a small increase above what we always receive" under normal circumstances.

Meanwhile, according to a published report, Gov. Julian Carroll has indicated that he wants the federal government to assume responsibility for caring for the nuclear dump.

State Finance and Administration Secretary Russell McClure has said in the past that the state would like the federal government to take over caring for the site, providing the state's environmental concerns are met.

The nuclear waste disposal site at Maxey Flats, about 25 miles north of Morehead, has been operated by Nuclear Engineering Co. of Louisville since 1963 by contract with the state.

Low-level radioactive waste from industries, power plants and hospitals is trucked to Maxey Flats and buried in deep trenches designed to prevent leakage and contamination of the environment.

"Low-level" refers to items contaminated by radioactivity in nuclear operations, not the actual by-products of nuclear reactions, which are considered "high-level" waste.

A controversy has arisen over burial of nuclear waste at the Fleming County site because of indications that surface water collecting in and around the trenches has run off and spread contamination.

There has also been concern about the geologic makeup of the site. Studies have shown that there is potential for fissures, which would allow radioactive materials to spread underground.

Montgomery said surface runoff appears to be the main "exposure pathway" of radioactivity to man. He said contamination through subsurface migration of the waste material is less likely, but added that EPA has not ruled out that possibility.

He said a study now underway by the U.S. Geologic Survey will shed more light on that aspect of the problem.

The EPA study identified four sources of radiation for humans and animals living in the area: breathing the evaporated water contaminated by the debris in the trenches; eating produce watered with contaminated water; drinking subsurface water from wells, and drinking the milk of cows which have grazed and watered on contaminated pastures and creeks.

But Montgomery said the radiation levels were all within acceptable EPA limits. The drinking water, for example, contained radioactive elements "substantially below EPA safety standards for drinking water," he said.

In response to a question from the audience, Montgomery said there was no evidence that radioactivity had built up over the last 10 years or so that the site has been used to dump nuclear waste. He said EPA tests on sediments didn't show excessive accumulation of radioactivity.

Charles Hardin, manager of the radiation division in the state Department for Human Resources, said the amount of radioactive waste buried at the site has dropped from an average of 23,000 cubic feet per year from 1963 to 1972 to about 2,000 cubic feet per year since June 19. A new state tax on nuclear waste materials brought to the site went into effect on that date.

Dr. Robert Singer, director of the Central Kentucky Animal Diagnostic Disease Laboratory in Lexington, said he had conducted an investigation into allegations that dairy cattle in the Maxey Flats area were becoming ill and dying as a result of radioactive contamination at the site.

However, Singer said extensive tests showed the cattle suffered from copper and phosphorus deficiency. He said he could not find any evidence of radioactive contamination.

Atty. Gen. Robert Stephens was one of those attending the hearing at the Fleming County courthouse. He said the attorney general's office is monitoring all reports on operation of the site adding, "If it looks like a danger to public health, we would take criminal action."

Carroll Says Coal, Not Oil Is The Answer

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll says the country should bank on coal, not oil or nuclear power, to provide its energy needs.

Prices of imported oil are going up, Carroll told the Appalachian Regional Commission Tuesday, and "we don't have enough uranium to operate the (nuclear) plants we have for 10 years, let alone those on the drawing board."

If the federal government can be convinced to provide funds to improve coal transportation roads, Carroll said, the 13 ARC member states "can solve the nation's energy problems with our coal."

"Appalachia may well be sitting on the brink of an economic explosion," the governor said.

Palmer Becomes Three-Time Recipient Of Cy Young Award

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Jim Palmer, an All-Star Game reject last July who reversed his field in the second half of the season, won the American League's Cy Young Award today for the third time.

The Orioles' right-hander joined Sandy Koufax, formerly of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets as baseball's only triple winners of the coveted pitching award.

Palmer, also named the American League's best pitcher in 1973 and 1975, was an easy winner this time over runner-up Mark Fidrych, Detroit's flashy "Birdman" who took baseball by storm in his rookie season.

Palmer received 108 points on 19 first-place votes, four seconds and one third from the Baseball Writers Association of America. His total more than doubled that of Detroit's young right-hander, who had 51 points based on five first-place votes, seven for second and five for third.

Points are awarded on a basis of five for first place, three for second and one for third.

California's Frank Tanana was a distant third with 18 points, while Ed Figueroa of the New York Yankees finished fourth with 12. Others who received votes were Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox, with 10; Vida Blue of the Oakland A's, 8; Minnesota's Bill Campbell, 7, and Rollie Fingers of Oakland and Wayne Garland, Palmer's teammate at Baltimore, 1 each.

Palmer had a losing record for most of the early season, but by the time of the All-Star Game, was pitching well and improved his record to 11-8. However, he voiced his displeasure when Boston Manager Darrell Johnson did not select him for the All-Star team.

"I felt that if Catfish Hunter

(of New York) was picked with the same record, I should have been selected, too," Palmer told The Associated Press Tuesday night. "But, really I never felt I should have been on the team. The whole thing was blown out of proportion."

"My point was that the American League never seems to send its best players to the All-Star games..."

Palmer led the American League in victories with a 22-13 record and had an earned run average of 2.51 despite a desultory start. The reason he pitched well in the second half of the season was that the Orioles played better over-all ball, he said.

"Our club played very well after June 15," said Palmer. "We had a better record than the Yankees after that. The club has to play well for you to pitch well."

Palmer's latest triumph leaves him with few new fields to conquer.

"I'd just like to pitch about five or six years longer and stay healthy," he said.

Fidrych had a 19-9 record and the best ERA in the American League with 2.34.

Cardinals Hope Warmth Will Help Against Rams

By PAUL STEVENS

Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are counting on a not-so-secret weapon to carry them to victory in Sunday's National Football League contest with the Los Angeles Rams. It's the warm California sun.

The team is scheduled to fly to Los Angeles tonight, three days earlier than normal, to conduct practices the rest of the week at the University of California-Riverside stadium, a short distance from the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"The weather is the big reason we're doing it," Coach Don Coryell said, noting that temperatures in the Los Angeles area were in the upper 80s in recent days — about 35 degrees warmer than in St. Louis.

"Getting out there a few days in advance, we'll get used to warm weather — and the smog,"

The Cardinals, who are in second place in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division, apparently think the plan will be worth the expense of extra lodging and meals for their 43 players making the trip.

"When you're 7-2 at this point, you can't afford to lose more than a third game because of everybody else's schedule," said St. Louis director of operations Joe Sullivan. "We might be able to lose only one more game and get into the playoffs."

After facing the Rams, who lead the NFC West with a 6-2-1 mark, the Cardinals must play Washington, NFC East-leading Dallas and Baltimore on successive Sundays.

Another advantage to practicing on the California-Riverside field is that it has natural turf, as does the Coliseum, while the Cardinals' own Busch Stadium has artificial carpeting.

Coryell still is upset over what he terms the Rams' refusal to allow the Cardinals to practice on the Coliseum surface last December before their NFC playoff battle, won by Los Angeles, 35-23.

"Other teams practiced on it before us," he said, "and the Dallas Cowboys did it the next week."

The St. Louis coach also recalled that because of the Christmas holiday, the team did not arrive in Los Angeles until the day before the contest.

"It takes three to four days for a person to become accustomed to weather conditions," Coryell said of his decision to arrive early this year. "We had a lot of players' cramping last year."

After the Rams' loss to Cincinnati on Monday night, Coryell said, "We think they'll be very excited."

"If they'd come out and beat Cincinnati by a few touchdowns, we could maybe sneak up on them and be lucky," he said. "But we have to be ready, especially with our injury situation and playing them on their home ground."

Lakers Blow 20-Point Final Period Lead, Fall To Braves

By The Associated Press

How does a team lose a 20-point lead in the last quarter, Jerry West?

"We lost our poise," said the Los Angeles Lakers coach, "that's all."

While losing their poise, the Lakers also lost the concept of their game plan and eventually lost the game to the Buffalo Braves — a 121-116 National Basketball Association overtime thriller Tuesday night.

"No way we should have lost it," lamented West. "We won the ball game — it just won't show up in the results."

Theoretically, at least, the Lakers should have won. They held an 89-69 advantage going into the last period, but neglected to go to their strength — center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The Braves finally tied the game in regulation on Bob McDood's shot with two seconds left, then won it in overtime behind Randy Smith's eight points.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks stopped the Washington Bullets 106-97; the Houston Rockets turned back the Chicago Bulls 111-92; the San Antonio Spurs blasted the Seattle SuperSonics 138-114; the New Orleans Jazz whipped the New York Nets 110-99; the Cleveland Cavaliers outscored the Milwaukee Bucks 111-90; the Denver Nuggets defeated the Golden State Warriors 123-117, and the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Kansas City Kings 119-102.

Knicks 106, Bullets 97
Walt Frazier scored 23 points and Mo Layton led a second-half surge, carrying New York past Washington. The Knicks went ahead to stay by scoring the last eight points of the third quarter for a 74-68 advantage.

Rockets 111, Bulls 92

Mike Newlin's 25 points and a rugged defense led by Moses Malone and John Johnson powered Houston past Chicago. The Rockets were able to convert numerous Chicago turnovers and defensive lapses into easy baskets whenever the Bulls threatened to close in.

Spurs 138, SuperSonics 114
San Antonio rode the solid shooting of Larry Kenon and George Gervin over Seattle. Kenon collected 24 points and Gervin had 23 as the game never was in doubt after the first quarter.

Jazz 110, Nets 99
New Orleans got 52 points from Gail Goodrich and Pete Maravich to beat New York in a game that the Nets played under protest. Goodrich scored all of his 28 points in the second and fourth quarters.

Cavaliers 111, Bucks 90
Sparked by Campy Russell's 25 points and Austin Carr's 22, Cleveland took control in the second quarter and whipped Milwaukee for the Cavs' ninth victory in 10 starts.

Nuggets 123, Warriors 117
Dan Issel and David Thompson combined for 22 points in the fourth quarter and 59 points over-all as Denver defeated Golden State and remained the only undefeated team in the NBA.

Blazers 119, Kings 102
Portland, paced by Lionel Hollins and Bill Walton, rallied from an early eight-point second-quarter deficit to beat Kansas City. The Blazers were plagued by turnovers early in the game, but got their attack rolling midway in the second period and had control throughout the second half in winning their fifth straight game.

Cross Country Team To Run In Regional

The Murray State cross country team will be entered in the NCAA Regional Meet this Saturday at Greenville, South Carolina.

The Racers finished third in the OVC Meet at Clarksville last Saturday and placed three men in the top 10 to qualify for All-Conference honors.

Those three in the top 10 included Martyn Brewer, eighth, Richard Charleston, ninth, and Brian Rutter, 10th.

Besides those three, also going to the NCAA Regional will be Mike Vowell, Jimmy Colon, Kevin Perryman and Mitch Johnson.

The top six teams and the top 12 individuals not on those six teams will qualify for the NCAA Meet which will be held Nov. 22 in Denton, Texas.

Maxey Flats Residents Shouldn't Fear Radiation, Official Says

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky. (AP) — A federal official has assured Kentuckians living near the Maxey Flats nuclear waste dumping ground that they have nothing to fear from excessive radiation levels.

Testifying at a public hearing here Tuesday, Dr. Daniel Montgomery, representing the Environmental Protection Agency, said that an EPA study conducted at the Fleming County site from October, 1974 to August, 1975, showed there were "elevated levels" of radiation in certain parts of the 252-acre burial ground.

But Montgomery assured he audience of about 60 persons that the "potential exposure level to residents is quite low."

In fact, Montgomery said, the amount of radiation reaching local residents is "lower than the dosage that everyone in the United States received from nuclear weapons testing during the 1960's."

Montgomery also said the exposure to radiation is "just a small increase above what we always receive" under normal circumstances.

Meanwhile, according to a published report, Gov. Julian Carroll has indicated that he wants the federal government to assume responsibility for caring for the nuclear dump.

State Finance and Administration Secretary Russell McClure has said in the past that the state would like the federal government to take over caring for the site, providing the state's environmental concerns are met.

The nuclear waste disposal site at Maxey Flats, about 25 miles north of Morehead, has been operated by Nuclear Engineering Co. of Louisville since 1963 by contract with the state.

Low-level radioactive waste from industries, power plants and hospitals is trucked to Maxey Flats and buried in deep trenches designed to prevent leakage and contamination of the environment.

"Low-level" refers to items contaminated by radioactivity in nuclear operations, not the actual by-products of nuclear reactions, which are considered "high-level" waste.

A controversy has arisen over burial of nuclear waste at the Fleming County site because of indications that surface water collecting in and around the trenches has run off and spread contamination.

There has also been concern about the geologic makeup of the site. Studies have shown that there is potential for fissures, which would allow radioactive materials to spread underground.

Montgomery said surface runoff appears to be the main "exposure pathway" of radioactivity to man. He said contamination through subsurface migration of the waste material is less likely, but added that EPA has not ruled out that possibility.

He said a study now underway by the U.S. Geologic Survey will shed more light on that aspect of the problem.

The EPA study identified four sources of radiation for humans and animals living in the area: breathing the evaporated water contaminated by the debris in the trenches; eating produce watered with contaminated water; drinking subsurface water from wells, and drinking the milk of cows which have grazed and watered on contaminated pastures and creeks.

But Montgomery said the radiation levels were all within acceptable EPA limits. The drinking water, for example, contained radioactive elements "substantially below EPA safety standards for drinking water," he said.

In response to a question from the audience, Montgomery said there was no evidence that radioactivity had built up over the last 10 years or so that the site has been used to dump nuclear waste. He said EPA tests on sediment didn't show excessive accumulation of radioactivity.

Charles Hardin, manager of the radiation division in the state Department for Human Resources, said the amount of radioactive waste buried at the site has dropped from an average of 23,000 cubic feet per year from 1963 to 1972 to about 2,000 cubic feet per year since June 19. A new state law on nuclear waste materials brought to the site went into effect on that date.

Dr. Robert Singer, director of the Central Kentucky Animal Diagnostic Disease Laboratory in Lexington, said he had conducted an investigation into allegations that dairy cattle in the Maxey Flats area were becoming ill and dying as a result of radioactive contamination at the site.

However, Singer said extensive tests showed the cattle suffered from copper and phosphorus deficiency. He said he could not find any evidence of radioactive contamination.

Atty. Gen. Robert Stephens was one of those attending the hearing at the Fleming County courthouse. He said the attorney general's office is monitoring all reports on operation of the site adding, "If it looks like a danger to public health, we would take criminal action."

Carroll Says Coal, Not Oil Is The Answer

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll says the country should bank on coal, not oil or nuclear power, to provide its energy needs.

Prices of imported oil are going up, Carroll told the Appalachian Regional Commission Tuesday, and "we don't have enough uranium to operate the (nuclear) plants we have for 10 years, let alone those on the drawing board."

If the federal government can be convinced to provide funds to improve coal transportation roads, Carroll said, the 13 ARC member states "can solve the nation's energy problems with our coal."

"Appalachia may well be sitting on the brink of an economic explosion," the governor said.

Deaths and Funerals

Edward Freeman, Former Resident, Dies At Nashville

The graveside services for Edward M. Freeman, manager editor and news director of the Nashville Tennessean, Nashville, Tenn., were held November 2 at Woodlawn Memorial Park, Nashville, Tenn., with Rev. Robert J. Norman, pastor of Belmont Heights Baptist Church officiating.

Mr. Freeman, age 62, died November 1. He was a native of Marshall County and had been a member of the Tennessean staff for 36 years. He was editor of The College News at Murray State College and interviewed President Franklin D. Roosevelt for the paper while he was editor. He had been to Washington, D.C., presented himself at the White House and was granted the interview.

The deceased later served as editor of the Ledger & Times at Murray.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Lois Freeman, Nashville, Tenn.; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Blank, Columbia, Tenn.; one son, Mike Freeman, Decatur, Ala.; two sisters, Mrs. Ona Bell and Miss Oma Freeman, Hickory; two brothers, John Freeman, Pana, Ill., and Clarence L. Freeman, Benton; four grandchildren.

Sister Of Hazel Residents Dies; Funeral Is Today

Mrs. Ayma P. Swann, sister of Mrs. Verna Orr and Mrs. Tera Milstead of Hazel, died Sunday in West Palm Beach, Fla., where she had been making her home.

She was 82 years of age and the widow of Adolphus Swann. She was a former resident of Mayfield.

Mrs. Swann is survived by one son, Rudolph Swann, West Palm Beach, Fla.; granddaughter, Mrs. George Jordan, Jr., and five great grandchildren, Norfolk, Va.; three sisters, Mrs. Orr and Mrs. Milstead of Hazel and Mrs. Edna Coffey, Louisville; two brothers, Milton Paschall, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mason Paschall, Uniontown, Ala.

The funeral is being held today at one p.m. at the chapel of the Byrn Funeral Home, Mayfield, with Rev. John Huffmann and Rev. Charles Dinkins officiating. Burial will be in the Highland Park Cemetery, Mayfield.

Mrs. Thelma Jones Dies; Sister Of Archie Simmons

Mrs. Thelma Jones, sister of Archie Simmons of Murray, died Monday at 6:10 a.m. at the National Health Enterprises, Paducah. She was a resident of Elmwood Court, Paducah, and was 73 years of age.

The deceased was the widow of Pete Jones, was a member of the Barlow United Methodist Church, and was a graduate of the St. Louis School of Embalming at St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Jones and her husband were funeral directors in Kewell and Barlow until she retired in 1957. After 1957, she was employed by the state of Ohio for seventeen years until she retired in 1973, after which she was associated with the Jones Funeral Home, Barlow.

Survivors are one son, Robert Roy Hedges, Tipp City, Ohio; stepson, Troy Jones, LaCenter; one brother, Archie Simmons, Murray; three sisters, Mrs. N. W. Cannon, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. George Jacobs and Mrs. Beasley Vaughn, Paducah; three grandchildren.

Funeral services are being held today at two p.m. at the Jones Funeral Home, Barlow, with Rev. James Murphy officiating. Burial will be in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery there.

Mrs. Lela O. Jones Dies; Funeral To Be Here Saturday

Mrs. Lela O. Jones of Brookfield, Ill., formerly of Calloway County, died Monday at 10:30 p.m. She was 69 years of age and the widow of Robert Jones.

The deceased was the daughter of the late William B. Lassiter and Leona Outland Lassiter of Calloway County.

Mrs. Jones is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Roger (Nancy) Perez, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Allen (Dorothy) Benoit, Rock Island, Ill.; and Mrs. Ray (Bettie) Gibbons, Brookfield, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Vera Jones, Hazel, Mrs. Amos (Eulala) McCarty, Murray, and Mrs. Johnny (Ovelia) Barrow, Paducah; two brothers, Beaton Lassiter, Murray, and John B. Lassiter, Berwyn, Ill.; seven grandchildren; eight great grandchildren.

The funeral has been scheduled for Saturday at eleven a.m. at the chapel of the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home with burial to follow in the Elm Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at a time to be announced.

Fifty per cent of all fatal falls involve women, says Lois Winterberg, head of the National Safety Council's women's department.

Hawthorne Presentation Is Scheduled

"Feathertop: A Moralized Legend" by Nathaniel Hawthorne will be presented by the Readers Theatre of Murray State University at the United Campus Ministry at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 11.

Sponsored by the Department of Speech and Theatre, the show is an adaptation of the Hawthorne short story in which Mother Rigby turns a scarecrow into a fine gentleman.

The script was adapted and the production is directed by Sue Pratschner, assistant director of Readers Theatre. The faculty adviser and supervisor is Jill O'Brien, director of Readers Theatre.

A seven-member student cast includes: Sue Hill, Springfield, Va., junior, as narrator of the legend; Leasha Hazel, Paris, Tenn., junior, as Mother Rigby; Beverly Bunyard, West Plains, Mo., freshman, as the Mirror; Harold Arnett, Murray junior, as Master Gookin; Johnny Cannon, Arlington sophomore, as Dickon; John Martin, West Plains, Mo., freshman, as Feathertop; and Teresa Moody, Murray freshman, as Polly Gookin.

Admission is $1.25 or 75 cents with a Murray State student identification card.

Legislative Code To Be Available

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The General Assembly's Board of Ethics is making sure anyone interested will have access to the 40-page legislative code of ethics.

The board voted Tuesday to print 5,000 copies for distribution to legislators, libraries throughout the state, and other interested persons.

The code, adopted by the 1972 General Assembly, sets forth ethical guidelines on conflicts of interest, legislators' relationships with lobbyists and many other questions.

Carter Considering New Plan For Appointments To Cabinet

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer
ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is considering a new plan for appointing Cabinet members and senior White House staff and has ruled out naming a single, all powerful chief of staff.

"It is not his intention to have a single person who would function as a chief of staff and exercise authority over all other staff members," Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary said Thursday.

Although President Ford uses a staff chief, the best-known recent staff chief was H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's right-hand man. Even Cabinet officers had to go through Haldeman when they sought access to Nixon.

Powell said that is not Carter's style and is not the way he ran his office when he was governor of Georgia or his campaign for president.

He said Carter is likely to opt for a "spokes of the wheel" approach, similar to that used by President John F. Kennedy, who allowed six or seven top aides equal access to the President.

Powell said that will increase the information and points of view Carter receives and will result in "increased competition among staff members which keeps us all on our toes."

Jack Watson, who is directing the transition effort for Carter, says the White House staff in the new administration will be smaller, perhaps by as much as 20 per cent, than the staffs for the Nixon and Ford administration.

Watson says the staff will advise and support Carter in his executive functions but will not try to direct the Cabinet departments.

The President-elect is winding up his vacation at a 1,383-acre estate of woods and saltwater marshes, the Musgrove Plantation. Record cold temperatures have been set every day that Carter has been in the area, spending some time studying briefing papers on defense and foreign policy.

Carter is to return to his home in Plains, Ga., early Thursday.

He told Powell he does not want to make the 45-minute flight to the airport in Albany, Ga., aboard the U.S. Air Force plane that served three Presidents — Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon — as Air Force One.

President Ford gave Carter use of the plane to bring him and his family here. Powell quoted Carter as saying it would be a waste to use two planes when the entire traveling party of family, staff and press can be accommodated on one commercial, chartered airliner.

Carter has not appeared in public since attending church Sunday.

Southwest School Plans Festival Here Saturday

The annual Fall Festival will be held at Southwest Calloway Elementary School on Saturday, November 13, from six to nine p.m.

Booths will open at 6:30 p.m. and the crowning of King and Queen of the festival will be at 8:30 p.m.

A door prize of a country ham will be given, and tickets will be sold for a CB radio, according to Sandra Gallimore, president of the Parent-Teacher Club of the school.

The cafeteria will be open with hamburgers, corn dogs, homemade pie, cold drinks, and coffee being served.

Admission will be fifty cents for adults, twenty-five cents for children, and free to children under six.

One out of 37 deaths of ordinary life insurance policyholders last year was the result of suicide or homicide.

Ann Brooks, left, and Geri Andersen hold one of the posters announcing the annual bazaar of the Creative Arts Department of the Murray Woman's Club to be held Saturday, November 13, from nine a.m. to five p.m. at the Calloway County Public Library. Proceeds from the bazaar will go toward the annual scholarship given to a student at Murray State University. Helping his mother with the placing of the posters made for the bazaar was Todd Brooks.

Local Humane Society Now Has 175 Members

Although the Humane Society of Calloway County is a relative newcomer on the local scene, its membership and active, broad-based program belie its short existence.

Dedicated to the prevention of cruelty, the relief of suffering among animals, and the extension of humane education, the growth of the society has been remarkable. Since its founding a year and a half ago, it has grown steadily to a present membership of 175, a membership made up of both native Calloway countians and recent newcomers.

From its beginnings, the Society has sought to carry out a program which deals not only with distress among animals but the causes of distress. Thus, the program involves not only welfare—finding homes for stray animals and caring for sick and injured animals—but spaying of animals and humane education as well.

"Unless the society attacks vigorously the problem of overpopulation caused by unrestricted breeding of pets and unless it seeks to change basic attitudes toward animals among the general public, old and young alike, it cannot hope to cope with animal problems in the city and county," Dr. Keith M. Heim, president of the Society, said.

Welfare activities are, of course, the most visible part of the Society's program. Since it began, the Humane Society has given aid to more than 1,000 animals, chiefly dogs and cats.

Every day, members visit the city-county dog pound to do what they can to help the dogs there. Milk is given to small pups too young to eat the food provided for them by the city and county. In cold weather, dry bedding is provided.

Two "pig warmers" were purchased recently through the generosity of society members to keep small puppies warm during the coldest days of the winter. Help is given the dog warden in keeping pens clean, and the sides and roof of the pound were fixed up recently to help keep the worst of the wind and snow off the dogs.

In emergencies, very small pups not yet weaned (but which were dumped on county roads by their owners) are taken home by members and cared for until permanent homes can be found for them.

The amount of help that can be given in such instances and to other dogs and pups found wandering about the city and county without homes is limited, however, since only a handful of members board animals. The problem is especially critical with cats, Dr. Heim explained, since the city and county make no provision for them at the pound. Where possible, cats and kittens are boarded until they are adopted. Other welfare activities include lost and found services and rescuing injured animals.

Since most animal problems can be traced back to unrestricted breeding, the society places a good deal of emphasis on spaying of animals. "Unless owners themselves exercise their responsibility in reducing the number of unwanted kittens and pups, it is impossible to keep up with the problem of stray and feral animals," Eva Crank, a member of the Spaying Committee, noted.

"These animals," she added, "aside from the humane aspects of the problem are a nuisance to property owners and constitute a health hazard."

Although the society has given a high priority to finding a way to set up a low cost spaying program, none has been found yet, and its main effort with regard to spaying is directed toward education of pet owners.

One of the most active and effective programs of the society is its program of humane education, which seeks to reach the general public from elementary school on up. A corps of certified teachers, under the direction of Janis Hicks, is available to give short programs on animal care and kindness to animals to school children upon request.

Last year, it is estimated that programs were given to more than 500 children through the cooperation of the city and county schools, and the program is continuing this year. The program usually includes a film strip on animal care, which is narrated by Allen Ludden, and a discussion period. Bookmarks stressing humane themes are provided to the Calloway County Public Library for distribution to children, and films are occasionally supplied to the library for story hours.

Adults are not neglected in the educational program. Every week, the "Humanely Speaking" column appears in the Murray Ledger & Times, giving tips on pet care and focusing on animal problems in the community. Among the topics which have been featured in the past year are spaying, cruelty to animals, poisoning, dumping of animals, and the danger of leaving animals in cars during warm weather.

Leaflets on pet care and posters supplement the program, and speakers on animal problems and on the programs of the Society are available to local civic groups on request.

When humane societies are mentioned, the stereotype of "little old ladies in tennis shoes" and "do-gooders" usually comes to mind. The local Humane Society doesn't fit that mold. Although a number of senior citizens are active in the society, which is one of the largest civic organizations in the county, the large majority of members are in their 20s or early 30s.

They come from a wide variety of backgrounds. Included in the membership are policemen, businessmen, housewives, farmers, truck drivers, university professors and students, school children, retired persons, teachers, secretaries, and even a karate instructor. "Anyone is welcome," Dr. Heim noted.

"Instead of being a group of wild-eyed idealists, we like to think we are a moderate, reasonable, and responsible group," said Jean Blankenship, a member of the Board of Directors. "We do not expect to save every animal, and we do not expect to solve all of the problems right now. Most of the problems are the result of many years of neglect and apathy among the general public, and we are working slowly, but aggressively in cooperation with local government and civic organizations to solve these problems."

"We recognize that human beings have rights too, and we try to see all sides of the question," she said. "Most people respond positively when we talk to them about animal problems, and are quite willing to cooperate," she added. "One thing the society refuses to take a moderate stand on, however, is deliberate cruelty to animals, including poisoning. The amount of cruelty to animals that goes on in the city and county is surprising," Mrs. Blankenship said.

Three misconceptions about the society have discouraged some individuals concerned about animals from joining, Dr. Heim noted. The first is the erroneous notion that the society seeks to do away with hunting. Individual members are entitled to their own opinions on hunting for or against—but the society as an organization does not oppose it so long as the hunting boys are obeyed. In this respect, I think the society and most hunters are in total agreement," Heim concluded.

A second misconception is that one has to board stray dogs and cats if he is to join the society. "Only a dozen or so of our members board animals," said Heim. Those who want to be active can virtually do their own thing; typing, writing articles, distributing leaflets, addressing envelopes, investigating cruelty, helping at the pound, doing carpentry, rescuing injured animals, helping at bake sales, collecting rags for the pound, etc.," he added. "A goodly number of the society's members cannot participate actively or even attend meetings."

"These members perform a valuable service simply by being members—standing up and being counted for the cause of kindness to animals," Mrs. Irma LaFollette, a Board member, pointed out.

The third misconception which hinders the growth of the society is that it is some sort of "elite" or closed group, and that one has to be invited to join it. "Anyone who is concerned about the welfare of animals in this area (not just Murray and Calloway County) is welcome to join," Mrs. LaFollette said. Anyone wishing information about joining should call Dr. Heim at 753-3994 or Eva Crank at 753-3535.

The society meets every other month on the third Monday. The next meeting is at seven p.m., Monday, November 15, at the Calloway County Public Library. A film entitled "The Animals Are Crying" will be shown and after a short business meeting, refreshments will be served.

The film deals with animal shelters, a rather pertinent theme since a new dog pound must be built here in the next year.

The meeting will be a good opportunity for the general public to learn about animal shelters (for all types of animals) and to find out more about the society and its plans for the future," Dr. Heim said.

The Humane Society has no central office; all the work is done in private homes, Dr. Heim said. Also, the society has no official connection with the dog pound. The pound is operated by the local government, and the society does nothing more than help with the operation of the pound whenever possible.

The society receives no tax support; all its operating funds come from donations.

Penny Cappock, a member of the Humane Society, cares for one of the dogs at the dog pound.

Brad Newsome, a fourth grader at Carter Elementary School, brushes a cat at the Murray State University dairy barn as part of the mini-university program. Carol Barrett, of the humane society, helps in that portion of the mini-university dealing with animal care.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1976

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

You may now expect a "different" approach from others, also a real surprise. Work consistently on endeavors which net big dividends. Your prestige increases.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

Wait for cues before launching any project. An activity-happy person such as yourself could get into difficult situations if not on guard.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Avoid needless anxiety and tension. You can deal effectively with difficult assignments by being your unheralded ingenious and far-seeing self.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations — all promising to be beneficial.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some complications indicated in job matters. Beware of instability, emotionalism. Consult with others as to the best way to get on the productive road.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Break your program down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in unfamiliar ventures except where "dry runs" seem feasible.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Be realistic now and pursue only worthwhile goals. Take temporary delays in stride. Opportunity offered through clever use of your creative ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)

Ingenuity and a fresh approach to certain situations could brighten this day considerably. Soft-pedal complaints and aggressiveness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21)

Better advantages than you may anticipate. An especially good period for revitalizing projects which you may have considered dropping.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't be thrown off guard by fancy-sounding, but possibly misleading, propositions. Study the overall picture. Where there's REAL value, however, don't hesitate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Exercise your keen mental faculties. Some indicated opportunities may be missed if you are hasty or, indifferent.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You may run into some opposition but you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

YOU BORN TODAY love adventure, interesting people, life in general. You are intensely ambitious and have a brilliant intellect. You should have a scientific education, for you could shine in medicine, chemistry or physics. You have boundless energy and vitality and could become a great leader in the business or financial world. If attracted to the arts as you well may be with all your talents, you could excel in literature or in the theater, either of which would provide an excellent outlet for your emotions. ## Damage In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — A cyclone tore the roofs from 140 buildings in the Khabarovsk area of eastern Siberia and blew down 90 electric transmission towers, starting 79 fires that raged for more than two weeks, the Soviet press reported today.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said a tractor driver was killed while rescuing forestry machinery from the flames.

The cyclone occurred Oct. 17 and had winds of more than 80 miles an hour, Tass reported.

Ford Won't Decide On Future During Vacation

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Ford will not decide on his future plans during his current vacation, according to an aide, Robert Barrett.

"There certainly will be no decisions made," Barrett said as the President spent a second consecutive day Monday attending to paperwork and playing golf at this desert resort.

A brief announcement said that Ford swam before breakfast in the large pool at the rambling, 14-room ranch-style home of the U.S. Ambassador to Belgium, Leonard Firestone, which Ford has rented.

A small pool of reporters and photographers was permitted to make a 10-mile drive with Ford from the Firestone home in Rancho Mirage to the La Quinta Country Club golf course. But there, the press was barred from the grounds of the lush, palm-dotted country club.

Ford's golfing partners were former West Point football coach Earl (Red) Blaik, his long-time friend Leon Parma, a San Diego business executive, and Ray Kaiser, president of the club.

Also in California with the President were Mrs. Betty Ford, their sons Jack and Steve and daughter Susan. The family plans an eight-day stay in Palm Springs, during which the emphasis will be on sports, rest and relaxation.

Strauss To Resign Post On Jan. 21

DALLAS (AP) — Robert Strauss says he will relinquish the chairmanship of the National Democratic party on Jan. 21, one day after Jimmy Carter's inauguration as president.

But Strauss, who has held the post for four years, said he will continue to help Carter with cabinet selections and other appointments.

Strauss said he plans to return to his private Dallas law practice after he finishes his party work. But he declined to rule out the possibility that he would accept a presidential appointment if one were offered.

Amy Carter May Attend Small Public School

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nestled among brand-new steel and glass buildings in downtown Washington, like a reminder of its small-town past, is the Stevens public elementary school. In January, it may become the school where a president's daughter comes to learn.

Jimmy Carter has been critical of "exclusive private schools" that allow children of the "political and economic elite" to avoid public schools. And, following up on that statement at the Democratic national convention, the President-elect has said he will send 9-year-old Amy to public school if security permits.

If Amy goes to public school, it will probably be Stevens, a 108-year-old, three-story brick building at 21st & K Streets — about six blocks from the White House.

The school was built 108 years ago, the year Ulysses S. Grant was elected president, to house freed slaves. It was named after Thaddeus Stevens, an abolitionist congressman who proposed the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson.

Stevens is the oldest school building in operation in the District of Columbia, but it is also one of its most attractive. The brick front is painted white and blue, its rooms have been refurbished and its student body is one of the most diverse in the city.

In a school district that 95 per cent black, Stevens' enrollment breaks down to about 60 per cent black, 30 per cent foreign and Hispanic, and 10 per cent American whites.

If Carter follows through on his plan to send Amy to public schools, she will be the first presidential child to do so since one of Theodore Roosevelt's sons attended district schools in 1906.

The leading cause of disability in the nation is arthritis and rheumatism, affecting 1.4 million people.

Money No Longer Problem For Laurel County

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — While many school systems in the nation face financial woes and others have been forced to lock out children for lack of operating funds, money is no longer a problem for the Laurel County Board of Education — not since a construction company struck gold — black gold — while excavating for a new junior high school. "It's kind of a bonanza," Asst. Supt. William B. Hall said Tuesday. "We didn't know it was there."

A construction company was excavating for the new middle school facility on a half-acre site behind the local high school which is owned by the school system when the bonanza was found. Workmen struck a 10-inch seam of coal that Hall said is worth about $10,000.

He said school officials have received permission from the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to strip mine the coal "since we were going to have to move the ground out anyway to build the new school."

Before the find, announced at the board's last meeting, "we have had to count our pennies," Hall said.

"We are one of the poor districts, so this will definitely help us," he said. "We didn't expect it. We look on it as having that much more money in the general fund."

Laurel County was operating its schools on a shoestring budget, Hall noted, adding that this bonanza won't last forever.

But for a county that has only 28,000 residents and 6,700 children in 12 schools, it definitely will help, Hall said.

"We just ran into it, it's just a little seam, but it's good coal so we are going to sell it," Hall said. "We won't get the $10,000. We will get $5,000 or $6,000 out of it after expenses."

"But we look on it as something we didn't have, something we didn't know we would have, something we didn't anticipate," Hall said.

"We just got the go-ahead yesterday to get it out, so we will get the coal out this week," the school official said. "We expect to get the money as soon as it's sold."

He said "even though it's not a great amount, it will help."

"We can buy gas, coal — we have to heat all of our buildings — or we can buy teaching materials, anything," Hall said. "It goes in the general fund of the school board for whatever we need."

Laurel County has been operating its schools in the black, but just barely, Hall said.

"We have had our heads above water, just barely though," he said. "We just make ends meet, so this will really help."

Biggest Newspaper Purchase In History Nears Completion

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The biggest newspaper purchase in American history neared completion with an announcement by publisher S.I. Newhouse that he has acquired about 97 per cent of the stock of Booth Newspapers, Inc.

The total Booth purchase price is estimated at $305 million. The country's previous high transaction was the $99 million that Knight Newspapers, Inc., paid in its 1974 merger with Ridder Publications.

Newhouse bought about 25 per cent of the 7.47 million shares of Booth stock earlier this year and last month made a bid of $47 a share for the remaining stock.

The Los Angeles-based Times Mirror Co. had offered

$40 a share but dropped out of the bidding after Newhouse's higher offer.

Booth publishes eight daily newspapers in Michigan. It also has several suburban weeklies in the Cleveland area and publishes Papade magazine, a newspaper weekly supplement.

"Booth will continue as a separate corporation at its present location under its present management," said James E. Sauter, president of Booth, which is headquartered in Ann Arbor.

Newhouse currently publishes 22 daily newspapers, several magazines including Vogue and Mademoiselle, and has extensive radio and television holdings.

South Dakota Official Was Leading Double Life; Two Families

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — When South Dakota's director of economic development died three weeks ago, he left a wife and four children in Pierre. He also left a wife and five children less than 200 miles away in Sioux Falls.

Bob Martin's double home life surfaced because attorneys for both families inquired about his estate after he died of a heart attack on Oct. 16 at the age of 52.

State Atty. Gen. William Janklow confirmed the arrangement Sunday and said an investigation was under way, although he said he had "mixed feelings" about it.

"All it's going to do is wreck the innocent kids. And on top of it, their father's dead," he said.

The Sioux Falls wife said Sunday that she did not know there were two families. Someday, she said, she would like to talk to the wife in Pierre.

"I feel very sorry for her also," she said. "It was just as much a shock to her." Mrs. Martin of Pierre, asked Sunday about the situation, said: "This is not fact," and declined further comment. Her attorney, Gary Colwill, said he planned to file for the estate on Monday. He said he had been unable to find a will.

Jack Allmon, who as South Dakota's secretary of economic and tourism development was Martin's boss, described him as a reserved and quiet man who didn't socialize much. But Allmon added that he knew the family in Pierre, and he described it as "very close."

It's not known when Martin married the Pierre woman, but the youngest of their children was said to be about 12 years old.

Allmon said a son in the Pierre family had worked in the state tourism department the last two summers.

Martin traveled frequently between Pierre — the state capital — and Sioux Falls, where his division was headquartered. He maintained an office in Pierre.

Attorney Steven Jorgensen, who represents the Sioux Falls wife, said she married Martin in 1968. He said he had not been able to find the marriage license. The youngest child of that marriage reportedly is 14 months old.

The wife in Sioux Falls said Martin spent Christmas and other holidays with her.

Martin's last salary checks and his personnel file have been impounded by the state pending a legal determination of how to administer the estate, Atty. Gen. Janklow said.

He said the Minnehaha County grand jury would be convened, and would take testimony from several people, including the wife in Sioux Falls.

Two days before Martin's death, Janklow said, he received an anonymous letter about Martin's double life. He said Martin died before he could ask him about it.

Why not do it?

Let Begley's fill your next prescription.

When was the last time you took your doctor's prescription somewhere else and actually compared prices and service?

If you haven't done it recently maybe you ought to--- "Somewhere else" might save you money and offer better service.

Pharmacists Kenny Tucker and Sam Tackett would like their Begley Drug Store to be the "somewhere else" you try. Bring them your next prescription ( or have your doctor phone it in ) and let them give you Begley's price before you have it filled --- there's no obligation.

You'll find Begley's price is so good and the service so much better, you'll never have to go " somewhere else " again.

Senators Not Allowed To Check Israel's Nuclear Installations

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli government has put its secret nuclear installations in the Negev Desert off limits to a party of U.S. senators checking safeguards against the manufacture of atomic weapons, a leading Israeli newspaper reports.

The newspaper Maariv reported the government turned down numerous requests from the 13 senators to visit the facilities built with French help in the 1950s near the town of Dimona, in southern Israel.

"We want to learn about the atomic development programs in this region and to study how supervision and control both here and in Egypt can ensure that atomic energy will be for peaceful uses only," Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., told reporters at Ben-Gurion Airport.

The senators arrived Sunday for a four-day visit in preparation for Senate action on agreements carrying out former President Nixon's offers of nuclear power reactors to Israel and Egypt. Before the reactors can be supplied, the Senate must approve the safeguards against diversion of the nuclear material to the production of weapons.

Foreign press reports have said Israel has made more than 10 atomic weapons with material from the Dimona installation. Last March, the editor of a Washington newsletter said senior officials of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency told him at a briefing that Israel had 10 to 20 nuclear weapons "ready for use." The CIA refused to confirm or deny the report.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the senators would not pressure the Israelis to sign the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, which Egypt has signed.

"We are not here to conduct any negotiations," said Baker. But he, too, said they "want to see...how the safeguards will be carried forward."

Carroll May Make Recommendation

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A recommendation may be made by Thursday on whether to include the issue of Workmen's Compensation in the upcoming special session of the General Assembly, according to Gov. Julian M. Carroll.

Speaking before the 80th annual convention of the Independent Insurance Agents of Kentucky, Carroll said Monday that a special commission studying workmen's compensation is expected to make a final recommendation to him on Thursday.

He said the issue probably will be on the special session's agenda.

More than 600 insurance agents from around the state are attending the convention, which ends today.

Recent Kentucky Supreme Court decisions and an increase in workmen's compensation rates have combined to raise the premiums by an average of 32.5 per cent this year.

"Some organizations have been lobbying to have workmen's compensation considered by the special session, expected to convene the last week of this month," Carroll said. "The commission probably will have suggestions that will reduce premiums."

My own staff has been making independent evaluations of some aspects and hope to have additions to the commission's recommendations that will reduce the premiums more," the governor commented.

No-fault automobile insurance also is a likely topic, Carroll said again, as he has previously.

He stressed that the state's economy can be bolstered without levying new taxes.

The governor said state government must operate its own business efficiently and encourage strength in the business community so it will produce more tax revenue.

"When bothered with inflation as we are now, government too often turns to new taxes, but that's really the easy way," Carroll said.

"But I won't accept that. Most people are paying as much as they can now in taxes."

Mrs. C. C. Lowry, immediate past president of the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board is shown receiving a gift from Rev. Fred French, present chairman of the board, in recognition of outstanding leadership to the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board and service to her community. Mrs. Lowry served as the board chairman for two years and is presently chairman of the program planning and evaluation committee. The 35 member board provides mental health, mental retardation, and substance abuse services to the Purchase Area.

Sid Easley, Calloway County attorney, was recently presented a plaque by the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board in recognition of outstanding service to the board and community in providing mental health, mental retardation, and substance abuse services. Easley served for six consecutive years before rotating from the board. Mrs. C. C. Lowry, immediate past president of the board is shown presenting the award.

10 Per Cent Hike In Oil Prices Appears Evident By Dec. 15

By The Associated Press
The major oil exporting nations appear sure to raise oil prices by at least 10 per cent at their ministerial meeting beginning Dec. 15 in the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Qatar.

Saudi Arabia, the largest oil exporter and the most powerful member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, has said it wants a "moderate" increase by the 13 members. This has been interpreted to mean about 10 per cent.

Iran, the second largest oil exporter, is thought to favor an increase in the area of 25 per cent, while Venezuela, another influential OPEC member, wants at least 15 per cent. Most other OPEC members have said they want an increase or will go along with one.

Ahmed Zakeri, the spokesman at OPEC's Vienna headquarters, said last month he believed the price would be "adjusted," which in oil talk means increased.

The oil countries argue that they need another increase because inflation in the West has raised the prices of industrial goods they import and is thus eating up oil income. Some Western economists dispute this view.

The present OPEC price of $11.51 for a 42-gallon barrel of standard grade crude has been in effect since Oct. 1, 1975. Oil ministers considered raising prices at their meeting in Bali in May, but took no action, apparently because of Saudi opposition.

Each 10 per cent increase in the price of OPEC oil, if passed along entirely to consumers, would add about a penny a gallon to the price of gasoline in the United States.

This takes into consideration the fact that the United States imports 40 per cent of its oil.

A price increase would also be felt in many other parts of the economy, ranging from heating bills to public transportation.

Knut Hammarckjold, director general of the International Air Transport Association, said Monday in Singapore that an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in oil prices would add $250 million to $375 million to airline operating costs around the world. He said it would have to be passed along to passengers in the form of higher ticket prices.

U.S. President-elect Jimmy Carter said at his news conference last week that an oil price increase would be "a very serious blow" to consuming nations but that all he could do before taking office was to express concern.

Birds Expected To Return To Kentucky Again This Month

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Seeking refuge from the wintry north, millions of starlings, grackles, cowbirds and redwinged blackbirds are expected to arrive in Kentucky this month.

Thousands have been reported passing through the northern Kentucky suburbs of Cincinnati, the Jefferson County suburbs of Louisville, the Indian Hills area of Frankfort and the Water Valley community in Graves County.

They've stopped for a few days in these areas before moving on to their winter roosts, where they gather by the millions, according to Kentucky's top pest control official.

Coburn Gayle, director of pest and noxious weed control, said Monday that he and U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials soon will begin planning the extermination of large numbers of the birds.

The blackbirds, hailed by northern farmers as devourers of undesirable insects, plague the farmers of Kentucky by eating grain in animal feedlots.

They are blamed for transmitting disease to hogs in the feedlots, and farmers say the losses in grain and livestock amount to millions of dollars statewide.

The large flocks are also blamed for the spread of histoplasmosis, a human lung disease caused by spores that can grow in bird droppings.

Gayle said he and federal officials will wait "until all of them are here that are going to be here . . . a couple of weeks," and then will begin surveying the roosts, picking targets for chemical attacks.

The federal fish and wildlife officials must certify a roost before Kentucky can obtain the PA-14 detergent used to kill the birds, he said.

The detergent is sprayed on the roosting birds when the weather is cold and wet. It removes the protective oils from their feathers, causing them to die of exposure.

A roost must contain 500,000 birds or more to be certified, Gayle said, and the federal officials will check for environmental factors, such as nearby streams or water supplies, that would make chemical spraying unadvisable.

He estimated that "eight or ten, maybe a dozen" roosts will be considered for spraying, and said operations will begin "in the latter part of this month or the early part of December."

Early reports indicate some roosts may have been abandoned because of spraying last year, but that blackbirds are settling this fall in some areas they haven't roosted in before, Gayle said.

He said roosts in Grayson, Warren, and Barren counties that were sprayed last winter show no signs of occupation yet this fall, while birds do appear to be moving into a roost at Russellville, which was sprayed last year, and one at Mayfield, which was not.

A Hart County roost near Munfordville, not sprayed last year, already has some 2 million birds in it, Gayle said.

Two new roosting areas, he said, are in Fayette County near Lexington and in Simpson County near Franklin.

25 Per Cent To Have Received Swine Flu Shots

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State health officials are predicting that, based on early reports, about 25 per cent of eligible Kentuckians will have been immunized against swine flu by the end of the program.

But the proportion of persons in the high-risk group—those with chronic heart or lung conditions or persons over age 55—is considerably higher, according to Dr. Mitchell Singal, an epidemiologist in the Bureau for Health Services of the State Human Resources Department.

"Twice as many of those who need it (most) have been immunized," Singal said Monday.

Although reports from the mass immunization clinics operating throughout the state in the last three weeks indicate only a quarter of those eligible for the shots are receiving them, Singal said the percentage may be somewhat higher, depending on the number of persons who have been immunized by their private physicians.

Singal said the physicians have been slow in transmitting data to the state, but he hopes to have more information on the number of vaccinations given in the private sector by the end of the month.

"I should be a sizeable number," Singal said, citing a "sizeable amount" of vaccine requested by doctors.

If swine flu does occur here, the immunization program should help reduce the number of deaths among the elderly and chronically ill, and should cut economic losses resulting from lost time at work or school, he said.

However, he said the number of persons immunized is too small to keep the virus from spreading rapidly in a community once it starts.

But he said even that small percentage of people immunized would help reduce the impact if an epidemic were to occur.

Singal said that few blacks appear to have participated in the free mass immunization program, which would make an epidemic more likely in predominantly black areas.

State officials had expressed concern that they might run short of vaccine if there was a heavy turnout, but Singal said that, so far, no clinic has reported a shortage.

"We're all set for this week and part of next week," he said.

The state plans to schedule makeup clinics in counties that request them after the regularly scheduled clinics have concluded.

Health officials are hoping to complete the immunization program by the end of this month.

The vaccine becomes effective in about two weeks, Singal said. Flu season generally starts in January.

Huel (Wimpy) Jones, jailer for Calloway County, recently attended a special fire arms school at the Bureau of Corrections, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond. Jones, right, practices shooting while Dick Garrot, state instructor, coordinator, and director of fire arms personnel at Eastern, watches.

Abby Scored for Sexist Reply

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: CHICAGO CHICKEN said he was afraid he'd feel like less of a man if he had a vasectomy, and you said, "If you're afraid you'll feel that way, the chances are you WILL." You then suggested that he place the burden of birth control on his wife!

1. Since when is being a father the ultimate sign of manhood? What does that make males who desert their children?
2. Since when should women bear the full responsibility for birth control so the male can feel like a "man"?
3. Using your logic and his, does his wife become less of a woman after she loses her ability to bear children?

Abby, how could you?

D. K.

DEAR D. K.: It was easy. Old attitudes die hard. Having been taught by a loving mother that "Papa comes first," my response was automatic—and admittedly sexist and thoughtless. My apologies to women everywhere who are striving for equality with men.

I'll take 20 lashes with a copy of the Equal Rights Amendment.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a well intentioned woman who suggested that volunteers occasionally take occupants in nursing homes for an "outing" instead of visiting them amid the same four walls they stare at day after day.

My own mother went into a nursing home at age 91, and remained there until she died at 96.

Every Sunday when I took her for a long ride, I'd fill up the car with other residents. Then one day, a nurse asked me if I realized that I would be vulnerable to a lawsuit were I to have an accident with one of the old folks in my car, or if one fell getting in or out of it.

After that, even though my heart went out to the old people, I stopped taking them for rides, but I did visit with them as often as possible.

There is just no good answer to the problem of loneliness there. Mama used to sit outside the door in a rocker, and once when I drove up, I said, "Mother, what are you doing out here? It's cold!"

She answered, "I'm just waiting for you." I kissed her and asked, "How did you know it was Sunday?" She answered, "I didn't. I wait for you every day."

G. W.

DEAR G. W.: Volunteers who visit nursing homes if only to talk with the residents there are offered places of honor in my pantheon of heroes.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it.

The OTHER WOMAN usually writes a tale of woe. I am the OTHER WOMAN but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car.

Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her and he always will be. If I could tell his wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it.

He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people, especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be.

Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.
